About the Word ‘Lord’

The word lord in English has several related meanings. The original meaning is ‘master’ or ‘ruler’, and in this sense it is often used to refer to human beings: ‘the lord of the mansion’ or ‘Lord So-and-So’ (in the United Kingdom, for example). The word Lord with a capital L is used in the lexicon of Islam to refer to the One and Only God — Allah. In Islam, there is no ambiguity about the meaning of this word. While it is true that one may occasionally use the word lord (whether capitalized or not) to refer to a human being, in Islamic discourse the reference of this term is always clear from the context. Whereas for Christians, Hindus and other polytheists, the word Lord with a capital L may refer to Allah, to Jesus or to some imagined deity, for Muslims, there can be no plurality of meaning. Allah alone is the Lord, and the Lord is Allah — not Jesus, not Rama, not any other being.

Is Copyright Applicable to Islamic Books?

Some Muslims claim that they have a ‘right’ to pirate Islamic books, and to share, distribute or make use of such unauthorized copies of Islamic books, because they believe that “Islamic knowledge cannot be sold” or “There is no copyright on Islamic knowledge.”

There are strong opinions from highly respected scholars that say the opposite: that Islamic Sharia respects and supports the concept of copyright. (See the references below.)

The translation of a written work is in itself a work of authorship, and merits its own copyright, whether the text from which a translation is prepared is a copyrighted work or in the public domain (not copyrighted). Copyright is not intended to deprive people of access to knowledge. On the contrary, the respect of copyright helps those involved in disseminating such beneficial knowledge to continue working to disseminate even more knowledge and beneficial information.

In a fatwa issued by the Fiqh Council of the Muslim World League in Makkah, it is stated:

That [an] author may spend most of his life writing a beneficial book, and publishing and selling it, then another person could take a copy of it and publish it by modern means of printing and photocopying, and he could sell it in competition with the author, or distribute it for free in order to become famous by means of distribution, and thus the author’s efforts would be wasted. The same may also be said of inventors.

This is something that could discourage people of knowledge and smart people from writing and inventing, when they see that their efforts are going to be stolen as soon as they appear, and people who put no effort into them as the original authors and inventors did will make a business out of selling them and competing with them. The situation changed with the development of new means and methods, which had a serious impact on the change from what things used to be to how they have become, which requires us to examine anew how people's efforts and rights may be protected.

The author and inventor should have rights with regard to that which they have written and invented, and this right is something that belongs to them according to sharee'ah. It is not permissible for anyone to take it away from them without their permission, provided that the book or research does not promote evil in any way, or contain bid'ah (innovation) or misguidance that is contrary to the laws of Islam, otherwise it should be destroyed and it is not permissible to publish it.

Similarly neither the publisher with whom the author makes a deal nor anyone else has the right to change any of the book's content or to change anything else without the author's consent...

With regard to the author or inventor who is commissioned or hired by a publisher to write a book or by a company to invent something for it for a specific purpose, what he produces becomes the right of the company that hired him, and he is bound by the conditions that they agreed upon.

Based on this fatwa, anyone who encourages the production of pirated versions — whether he/she is an investor, a printer, a distributor, a bookseller or a consumer — is sharing in this unlawful and unjust act.

Allah says:

﴿... وَتَعَاوَنُوا عَلَى الْبِرِّ وَالتَّقْوَىٰ ۖ وَلَا تَعَاوَنُوا عَلَى الْإِثْمِ وَالْعُدْوَانِ ...﴾ (سورة المائدة: ٢)

﴿...And cooperate in righteousness and piety, but do not cooperate in sin and aggression...﴾ (Qur'an 5: 2)

Copyrights serve to protect the work of all those involved in producing Islamic texts: authors, translators, Sharia revisers, researchers, editors, proofreaders, designers and typesetters. Allah knows best.

Publisher's Note

All praise and thanks belong to Allah alone, the One, the Almighty, and All-Merciful. Blessings and peace be upon Prophet Muhammad, the last of His messengers and prophets, and upon his family, his Companions and all those who follow in his footsteps until the end of time.

Unrestricted gender interaction has become one of the major ills prevalent among the Muslims today. In fact, it has increased to such an unprecedented level that many do not even consider it to be wrong. Nowadays, it seems almost unavoidable, when co-educational institutions and mixed gender weddings are the norm.

So what is the correct stance of Islam on this? Dr. Hatem al-Haj has presented a balanced view of mixed gender interaction — detailing both the stricter and more lenient views — supported by Qur'anic verses, hadiths and scholarly opinions. It is hoped that this book will prove to be a useful resource in distinguishing between the kinds of interactions that are permissible and the ones that are totally forbidden, and in knowing how to conducting oneself when interacting with the opposite gender.

May Allah accept the efforts of all those who contributed to the production of this book, and may it be acceptable to Him, âmeen.

Introduction

مقدمة

We begin with the name of Allah (Subhânahu wa Ta'âlâ — Glorified and Exalted is He), to Whom all praise is due. We praise Him, and we seek His help and forgiveness. We seek refuge with Allah (ﷻ) from the evil of our own selves. No one can misguide the one whom Allah (ﷻ) leads to the straight path. Similarly, no one can guide the one whom He allows to go astray. I bear witness that none is worthy of worship but Allah (ﷻ) and that Muhammad (ṣalla Allâhu 'alayhi wa sallam — blessings and peace be upon him) is His slave and messenger.

The foundation of this book was a paper that I submitted to the sixth annual convention of the Assembly of Muslim Jurists in America (AMJA). I was asked to write about the intricacies of the relationship between the sexes as it relates to intermixing, exploring the issues of gender interaction in the mosque as well as in social and cultural gatherings. I was asked to probe such issues as the exchange of affectionate emotions, the bringing together of teenagers of both sexes at public conferences to allow them to get to know one another, the establishing of co-educational Islamic schools, and whether there is a concession permitting men and women to shake hands in the West.

When I felt that the honorable scholars had found the paper commendable, and since they had incorporated most of its recommendations in the resolutions of the sixth convention, I embarked on rewriting it. My intention was to make it appropriate for addressing the general public, in the hope that Allah (ﷻ) might benefit those of my Muslim brothers and sisters who get a chance to read it. I also added two chapters to the original paper: one on mingling in the mosques and the issue of partitions therein, and the other pertaining to online interaction between the two genders.

The paper that was originally presented to AMJA was written in Arabic, as per the custom of the fiqh (Islamic jurisprudence) assemblies.¹ When I decided to submit it for publication, I translated it into English because the primary audience is intended to be the Muslim community in the West. I had the help of other individuals in rendering the paper into English, but I have carefully reviewed and corrected the whole translation. The fact that I am the author of the original work gave me some liberty with the translation, so while it conveys the same concepts and implications, it may not necessarily be faithful to the letter of the original work. As for the translation of the verses of the Qur'an, I have used the Saheeh International version throughout the book.²

I found it beneficial to keep the original Arabic as well as the translated English text together in one book. I hope that the students of knowledge, who usually like to review the original Arabic work, will appreciate that. I was happy to find my publisher, IIPH, concurring with this thought.

Through this book, I have attempted to collect as much evidence as I could to present the topic in question, and I have presented this evidence with as much impartiality as possible. I have tried to raise and discuss issues in light of the opinions of those who have been endowed with knowledge; at the same time, I have tried to explain in more detail anything I found ambiguous in their statements. All the issues have been simplified and categorized for appropriate presentation for the benefit of all those who wish to study this topic in detail.

وقد رأيت أن أنشر الترجمة إلى جانب الأصل في كتاب واحد لفائدة طلبة العلم الذين يرغبون في مطالعة النص العربي، وقد أقرني على ذلك الناشر (الدار العالمية) فاستبشرت بذلك.

وقد سعيت في إعداد كتابي هذا إلى جمع الأدلة باستيعاب وعرضها بتجرد، مع ذكر أقوال أهل العلم فيها وبيان ما أشكل من كلامهم، وذلك كله مع شيء من الترتيب والتنسيق الذي يقرب فهم هذا المطلب المهم للقارئ. ولكن ليس فيما تقرأون في هذا الكتاب شيء من المسلمات سوى آية من الكتاب أو سنة صحيحة أو فهم إجماع منعقد صريح، لذا فإنني أنصح إخواني بتوخي الحذر وأخذ الحيطة فيما أشكل عليهم مما يقرأون وأن

It is important to note that nothing in this text can be considered to be the final verdict on any topic unless it constitutes a verse from the Qur'an, an authentic Sunnah³ or a verifiable clear consensus of the scholars. Therefore, I implore my brothers and sisters to exercise caution in handling any ambivalent statements they may read, and to ask Allah (ﷻ) to forgive the writer for his mistakes. I also ask my readers to overlook the errors and the ambiguities, and to adopt only what conforms to Allah's revelations and intent.

³ The lexical definition of Sunnah is: the way, or the followed example. In juridical terminology, it means a source for the whole religion: creed, legislation, manners, etc. It consists of the Prophet's:

- oral traditions: known as Hadith; some scholars have used 'Sunnah' and 'Hadith' interchangeably.
- actions: including those which he avoided.
- tacit approvals: not forbidding an action that was performed in his presence or with his knowledge.

Introduction to the paper presented to the sixth AMJA convention

مقدمة الورقة المقدمة إلى المؤتمر السادس لمجمع فقهاء الشريعة بأمريكا

We begin with the name of Allah (ﷻ); all praise is due to Him. We praise Him, seek His help and beseech His forgiveness. We seek refuge with Allah (ﷻ) from the evil of our own selves. No one can misguide the one whom Allah (ﷻ) leads to the straight path. Similarly, no one can guide the one whom He allows to go astray. I bear witness that none is worthy of worship but Allah (ﷻ) and that Muhammad (ﷺ) is His slave and messenger. He conveyed the message from his Lord (ﷻ) with perfection. He explained to us the rules of our religion with respect to every aspect of life; even the People of the Book envied us for his explanation. O Allah (ﷻ), send peace and blessings upon him, his household, his Companions and whoever follows his religion until the Day of Judgment.

Allah (ﷻ) has created human beings in two categories: male and female. He has made them equal with respect to their humanity, and He has addressed them equally with the commands and prohibitions of the religion. He settled them in the land, and indeed the species cannot continue unless the two sexes unite. As such, the nature of the relationship between them and the limits and restrictions imposed on them must be understood with precision and mastery and applied with resolve and excellence. This is because an unbalanced understanding or application results in great risk to the individual and the society alike.

بسم الله والحمد لله، نحمده ونستعينه ونستغفره، ونعوذ بالله من شرور أنفسنا؛ من يهده الله فلا مضل له ومن يضلل فلا هادي له، وأشهد أن لا إله إلا الله وأشهد أن محمدًا عبده ورسوله، بلغ عن ربه فأتم البلاغ، وبين لنا شرائع ديننا في شتى مناحي الحياة، حتى غبطنا على بيانه أهل الكتاب. فاللهم صلّ وسلّم عليه وعلى آله وصحبه ومن اتبع ملتته إلى يوم الدين. أما بعد،

The brothers responsible for the sixth annual AMJA convention have entrusted me with the task of speaking about the intricacies of the relationship between the sexes as it relates to intermixing, whether in mosques or in social and cultural gatherings. I have also been asked to discuss the exchange of affectionate emotions between the sexes, the gathering of teenagers of both sexes at public conferences in order to allow them to get to know one another for the purpose of marriage, the establishment of co-educational Islamic schools, and the permissibility of men and women shaking hands as a part of American culture.

It would not be an exaggeration to present the contributing issues under the title of 'intricacies', for this is a very complicated topic. In fact, I know of no other issue in fiqh that is more challenging to maneuver than this one, in ولقد أسند إليّ الإخوة المسؤولون عن المؤتمر السادس لمجمع فقهاء الشريعة بأمريكا مهمة الكلام عن إشكالية العلاقة بين الجنسين من حيث الاختلاط سواء في المساجد أو المناسبات الاجتماعية والثقافية، وتبادل المشاعر العاطفية بين الجنسين، وجمع الناشئة من الجنسين في المؤتمرات العامة لغايات التعارف بهدف الزواج، وإنشاء مدارس إسلامية مختلطة، والترخص في المصافحة بين الجنسين كجزء من الثقافة الأمريكية.

The ruling on ikhtilâṭ (intermixing)

حكم الاختلاط

Before I discuss the ruling on intermixing, it would be pertinent to define this term. What do we mean when we refer to this intermixing that is permitted by some scholars and prohibited by others? Is it the gathering of men and women in one place, or is it men and women speaking to one another? Does it connote a certain type of speech, joint participation in a single activity, eating together, jointly attending a lesson or lecture, a gathering accompanied by entertainment, or a gathering with close physical contact? Or is it something else altogether?

قبل الشروع في الكلام عن حكم الاختلاط، يجدر بنا أن نتساءل ما هو الاختلاط الذي يحرمه البعض، ويجيزه البعض الآخر؟ هل هو اجتماع الرجال والنساء في مكان واحد؟ أو هو الكلام بين الرجال والنساء؟ أو نوع معين من الكلام؟ أو الاشتراك في عمل واحد؟ أو الاجتماع على طعام؟ أو في درس أو محاضرة؟ أو الاجتماع المصحوب بشيء من اللّهو والعبث؟ أو الاجتماع مع التضام والتزاحم والتصاق الأبدان؟ أم غير ذلك؟

Ikhtilâṭ in the language

الاختلاط في اللغة

Ikhtilâṭ, in Arabic lexicon, refers to mixing. This indicates the co-existence of two entities, such as the co-existence of a disease and a patient, or of two beings sharing one place. Ibn Fâris has said about a related word, “Al-khaleeṭ is the neighbor or the one next to another.” It could also mean partnership in business; Allah (ﷻ) has said: ﴿...And indeed, many khulaṭâ’ [pl. of khaleeṭ لقد جاء في تعريفه في لسان العرب: «خَالَطَ الشَّيْءَ بِالشَّيْءِ يَخْلُطُهُ خَلْطًا وَخَلَطَهُ فَخَالَطَ: مَزَجَهُ. وَخَالَطَ الشَّيْءَ مَخَالَطَةً وَخَلَطًا: مَزَجَهُ. وَالخَلَاطُ: اخْتِلَاطُ الْإِبِلِ وَالنَّاسِ وَالْمَوَاشِي».

وقد يعبر به عن مجرد اجتماع شيئين ومنه قولهم: «خالطه الداء»؛ أو الاشتراك

— meaning associates] oppress one another...» (Qur'an 38: 24)

It may also mean intercourse, as al-Azhari said, "Al-khilâṭ is mukhâlaṭah between the man and his wife — when he has intercourse with her."⁴

It could also be said that ikhtilâṭ is the gathering of men and women in one place with close physical proximity, allowing them to hear and see one another. However, if one restricts the usage of this word to this definition, it will not be possible to make a general judgment. The default ruling in such a scenario is only that such gatherings are prohibited. That would be an appropriate stance, justified by the following hadith (a statement of Prophet Muhammad ﷺ that was remembered and recorded by his Companions and followers):

«I have not left behind me a trial more harmful to men than women.» (Bukhari and Muslim)

Common sense would necessitate ensuring a distance between the source of the trial and the one being tried. Nevertheless, the authentic Sunnah and the practices of the righteous predecessors have proven the permissibility of many forms of intermingling when needed.

في مكان، ومنه قول ابن فارس: «الخليط المجاور»؛ أو عمل، ومنه قوله تعالى: ﴿وَإِنَّ كَثِيرًا مِّنَ الْخُلَطَاءِ لَبِئْسَ مَا كَانُوا يَفْعَلُونَ﴾؛ وقد يكتنى به عن الجماع، كما قال الأزهري: «الخلاط مخالطة الرجل أهله إذا جامعها».⁵

ويمكن القول: إِنَّ الاختلاط بين الجنسين هو اجتماع الرجال والنساء مع التقارب في مكان واحد بحيث يتمكن من فيه من رؤية وسماع بعضهم البعض. ولكنه بهذا التعريف لا يمكن الحكم عليه إلا أن يقال: إِنَّ الأصل فيه عند عدم الحاجة إليه هو المنع، وهو حكم وجيه ويكفي لتوجيهه قوله ﷺ: «ما تركت بعدي فتنة أضر على الرجال من النساء». والعقل يقضي بالفصل بين الفتنة والمفتون. ولكن قد أثبتت السنة الصحيحة وعمل السلف جواز كثير من صورته عند الحاجة، ولكن كثرة الصور، وتعدد الحاجات وتفاوتها، مع عدم وجود تعريف جامع مانع لما يحل من الاختلاط وما يحرم، كل ذلك أظهر أهمية التفصيل في هذا الموضوع.

(5) معجم المصطلحات والألفاظ الفقهية، لمحمود عبد الرحمن عبد المنعم: ٩٨ / ١.

The multiplicity of those permitted forms and the wide range of situations necessitating such mixing constitute a detailed and important answer to the question of the intermixing of genders. This is particularly so because of the absence of a comprehensive definition that includes all forbidden forms and excludes all permitted forms.

Ikhtilâṭ in fiqh terminology

The truth is that the term ‘ikhtilâṭ’, or ‘intermixing’, cannot be found in the books of fiqh or in the language (terminology) of the fiqh scholars. Linguistic definitions — as I have previously mentioned — are not very helpful here either, because even though the meaning is obvious, this term includes a wide variety of situations. This term (in the form of a noun) has also not been used in the revealed textual sources in the context of the relationship between men and women. Therefore, even after pinpointing the linguistic definition, the complexity remains.

The answer to this question is best left until the end of this paper, for the following two quotes by Imam an-Nawawi,⁶ from his book al-Majmoo‘,

الاختلاط في المصطلح الفقهي

الحقيقة أن مصطلح الاختلاط لم يعرف في كتب الفقه أو لغة الفقهاء. والتعاريف اللغوية لا تنفع هنا كثيرًا؛ لأن المعنى ظاهر ولكنه يتسع لصور كثيرة - كما ذكرت - ولم يرد - كمصدر - في سياق العلاقة بين الجنسين في نصوص الوحي؛ لذا، فحتى مع تحرير المعنى اللغوي، يبقى الإشكال قائمًا.

لذا فإن الإجابة عن هذا السؤال يحسن أن تؤخر إلى آخر البحث، وإن النصين elaborate on the reason behind not issuing a general, unqualified ruling of permissibility or prohibition on intermixing; they also underscore the importance of avoiding generalizations when speaking about this challenging issue.

He (may Allah have mercy on him) said: Ibn al-Mundhir⁷ and others have transmitted a consensus that it is permissible for a woman to attend and pray the Friday congregational prayer, since it has been established in a great number of authentic hadiths that women used to pray behind Allah's Messenger (ﷺ) in his mosque, behind the men. This is also because the intermixing of women with men, if it is not in seclusion, is not ḥarâm (forbidden according to Islamic law).⁸

الآتين من كلام الإمام النووي^٩ في كتابه المجموع بينان الوجاهة في عدم إصدار حكم غير مفصل عن حل أو حرمة الاختلاط، وعدم التعميم عند الحديث عن هذه القضية الشائكة:

قال رحمه الله: «وقد نقل ابن المنذر^{١٠} وغيره الإجماع على أنها لو حضرت وصلّت الجمعة جاز، وقد ثبتت الأحاديث الصحيحة المستفيضة أن النساء كن يصلين خلف رسول الله ﷺ في مسجده خلف الرجال؛ ولأن اختلاط النساء بالرجال إذا لم يكن خلوة ليس بحرام»^{١١}.

He was dedicated to worship and asceticism, and he was one of two scholars in the later generations considered to be the highest authorities in the Shâfi'i school. He was born in Nawâ, which was part of Syria.

He also said: Among the repugnant innovations initiated by the common folk during these times is the lighting of candles on Mount 'Arafah on the night of the ninth [of Dhul-Hijjah] or otherwise. They bring the candles from their countries for that [purpose], and they take great pains to safeguard them. This is a gross error in which they have combined several types of offenses, among which are wasting money on inappropriate things and exhibiting the rites of the Zoroastrians in safeguarding the fire; also included is the intermixing of men and women when there are candles in their midst and their faces are clearly visible.¹²

Imam an-Nawawi was not the only one to have been confused concerning an issue of this sort, and he was an erudite scholar who was qualified to verify information. So how does he mention the same issue in the same book as both permissible and reprehensible? The answer to this question will most certainly reveal itself in the following pages, by Allah's leave.

I will begin by presenting the evidence, and then I will go into detail by discussing the current situation and its implications. I do not normally approve of dividing the discourse into two opposing sides, but I have taken this approach for ease in presenting the evidence. I will refer to the two sides as the 'permitters' and the 'prohibitors',¹⁴ or more accurately: those who widen the scope of permissibility and those who tighten it. Thereafter, I will assess the superior position and present a detailed exposition, with the detailing perhaps taking longer than the assessment. This is because people [of knowledge] agree upon more issues than they differ over; their differences, in many cases, are simply over the wordings of the issues.

In coming up with a religious verdict, most of the real differences only appear during the stage of taḥqeeq al-manâf, or ascertaining the presence of 'illah (an effective cause for the ruling).¹⁵ This occurs during the final stage of constructing the religious decree; it relies, for the most part, on an awareness of the actual situation and the application of appropriate Islamic legal principles to new customs, norms and cases.

سأسلك طريقة التعميم التي لم أرها في الكلام عن حكم الاختلاط، فأجمع كل أدلة «المجوزين»^{١٦}، ثم «المانعين»، أو ربما الأصوب أن يقال: أدلة الموسعين والمضيقين، وبعدها أذكر الترجيح والتفصيل، ولعل التفصيل سيكون أكثر من الترجيح، لأن ما يتفق عليه الناس^{١٧} أكثر مما يختلفون فيه، وخلافهم في كثير من الأحوال لفظي، وأكثر الخلاف العملي إنما هو في مرحلة تحقيق المناط وهي المرحلة الأخيرة من صناعة الفتوى، والتي تعتمد في جزء كبير على إدراك الواقع ورد الجديد من العادات والأعراف والأحوال إلى الأصول الشرعية التي تناسب ذلك كله.

¹⁵ For example, the effective cause for prohibiting wine is its property of causing intoxication. If it is ascertained that a given substance is intoxicating, then this provides the basis for ruling that it is prohibited.

Evidence from the Qur'an

دليلهم من القرآن:

Allah, Most High, says in the Qur'an:

قوله تعالى:

«Then whoever argues with you about it after [this] knowledge has come to you — say: Come, let us call our sons and your sons, our women and your women, ourselves and yourselves, then supplicate earnestly [together] and invoke the curse of Allah upon the liars [among us].» (Qur'an 3: 61)

﴿فَمَنْ حَاجَّكَ فِيهِ مِنْ بَعْدِ مَا جَاءَكَ مِنَ الْعِلْمِ فَقُلْ تَعَالَوْا نَدْعُ أَبْنَاءَنَا وَأَبْنَاءَكُمْ وَنِسَاءَنَا وَنِسَاءَكُمْ وَأَنْفُسَنَا وَأَنْفُسَكُمْ ثُمَّ نَبْتَهِلْ فَنَجْعَلْ لَعْنَتَ اللَّهِ عَلَى الْكَاذِبِينَ﴾ [آل عمران: ٦١]

This was revealed after the verses of hijab.¹⁸ It contains an invitation to the Christians of Najrân to bring together on one plain those people mentioned, in order to invoke Allah's curse upon those who were lying.²⁰ This is one type of intermixing, but notice also that this is supposed to take place in an open, public space.

نزلت بعد آيات الحجاب،^{١٩} وفيها دعوة نصارى نجران إلى اجتماع المذكورين في صعيد واحد للمباهلة، وفي هذا نوع من

(١٩) [الحجاب قد يأتي بمعنى ستر العورات باللباس أو الشخصوخ بالحائل، والمعنى المستعمل في هذا الكتاب عند الإطلاق هو ستر العورات لا الشخصوخ].

الاختلاط، ولكن لاحظ أن ذلك في فضاء فسيح.

Allah, Most High, also says:

وقال تعالى:

«Those [of your] women who commit unlawful sexual intercourse — bring against them four [witnesses] from among you. And if they testify, confine the guilty women to houses until death takes them or Allah ordains for them [another] way.» (Qur'an 4: 15)

﴿وَالَّذِي يَأْتِيكَ الْفَاحِشَةَ مِنْ نِسَائِكَمْ فَأَسْتَشْهَدُوا عَلَيْهِنَّ أَرْبَعَةٌ مِنْكُمْ فَإِنْ شَهِدُوا فَأَمْسِكُوهُنَّ فِي الْبُيُوتِ حَتَّى يَتَوَفَّيَهُنَّ الْمَوْتُ أَوْ يَجْعَلَ اللَّهُ لَهُنَّ سَبِيلًا﴾
[النساء: ١٥]

A woman found guilty of fornication used to be punished with house arrest until Allah (ﷻ) specified that the penalty was flogging or stoning. Therefore, the confinement of women to their houses should not be considered the same as their 'remaining' in their houses. This is because the former is a punishment, whereas the latter is an honor, an elevation and a command from Allah, Most High, to the best of women: the Mothers of the Believers (the wives of the Prophet ﷺ) and all Muslim women to come after them.

فالزانية كانت تُعاقبُ بالحبس في البيوت حتى جعل الله لها سبيلاً بالجلد أو الرجم. إذا حبس المرأة في البيت هو غير قرارها فيه ﴿وَقَرْنَ فِي بُيُوتِكُنَّ﴾ [الأحزاب: ٣٣].

The interpretation of the meaning of women 'remaining' in their homes

فالأول كان عقوبة لها والثاني مكرمة ورفعة، وهو أمر من الله تعالى لخير النساء: أمهات المؤمنين، ولمن بعدهن من سائر نساء المسلمين. ولقد جاءت ترجمة المقصود بالقرار في البيوت في سيرتهن ﷺ. ولكن خروجهن لا يستلزم الاختلاط

²⁰ This is an old practice used when two groups insisted on their opposing points of view; they challenged each other to meet so that both could ask Allah to curse the ones who were lying. In this particular incident, Prophet Muhammad (ﷺ) took close members of his family with him. The Christians realized that he must be telling the truth about being a prophet, since he would not put his family in danger of being cursed by Allah if he was lying. (Editor) is apparent in the biographies of the Prophet's wives (may Allah be pleased with them all). It is known that they did venture outside their houses for various needs, but this did not necessarily entail the intermixing with men that most scholars have prohibited. Some of them have prohibited, or at least expressed their dislike of, women going out since that would lead to unavoidable types of intermixing; however, the best example was that of the first generation of Muslims.

Allah, Most High, mentions the following about Abraham ('alayhi as-salâm — peace be upon him) and his wife, Sarah:

﴿And his wife was standing, and she smiled. Then We gave her good tidings of Isaac, and after Isaac, of Jacob.﴾

(Qur'an 11: 71)

Here is the wife of Abraham, the father of all the prophets, standing before two guests. It must be noted, though, that she described herself in another place as:

﴿...a barren old woman.﴾

(Qur'an 51: 29)

Allah, Most High, says the following regarding Mary:

﴿...Every time Zachariah went to her in the prayer chamber, he found with her provision...﴾

(Qur'an 3: 37)

بالرجال الذي يمنعه أكثر الناس، وإن كان البعض قد منع أو كره خروجهن لما يؤدي إليه ذلك من الاختلاط الذي لا يمكن اجتنابه، ولكن خير الهدي ما كان عليه الرعيل الأول.

وقال تعالى عن إبراهيم وزوجه سارة:

﴿وَأَمْرَأَتُهُ قَائِمَةٌ فَضَحِكَتْ فَلَبَسَ رَتَبًا يَأْسَحَقُ
وَمِنْ وَرَاءِ إِسْحَاقَ يَعْقُوبَ﴾ [هود: ٧١].

فهذه امرأة أبي الأنبياء قائمة بين يدي الضيفان، ولكنها كما وصفت نفسها:

﴿عَجُوزٌ عَقِيمٌ﴾ [الذاريات: ٢٩].

وقال تعالى:

﴿كَلَّمَا دَخَلَ عَلَيْهَا زَكَرِيَّا الْمِحْرَابَ وَجَدَ عِنْدَهَا رِزْقًا﴾ [آل عمران: ٣٧].

Here is Zachariah (ﷺ), the husband of Mary's maternal aunt, entering Mary's prayer room. Even if that does not necessarily imply seclusion, it certainly involves intermixing. However, he is her custodian, and he said the following about himself in another verse of the Qur'an:

«...and I have reached an extremely old age.»
(Qur'an 19: 8)

Allah, Most High, narrates the following about Moses (ﷺ) and the two daughters of a pious man:

«And when he came to the well of Madyan, he found there a crowd of people watering [their flocks], and he found aside from them two women driving back [their flocks]. He said: What is your circumstance? They said: We do not water until the shepherds dispatch [their flocks], and our father is an old man.»
(Qur'an 28: 23)

These two women used to go out daily to water their livestock. On that particular day, Moses (ﷺ) spoke to them both and watered the livestock for them. However, an objector would say that they apologized for going out to water the animals by explaining that their father was an old man, and even then, they held their animals back to avoid intermingling with men.

فهذا زكريا زوج خالة مريم يدخل عليها المحراب، وإنه وإن كان لا يشترط في ذلك خلوة إلا أن فيه مخالطة، ولكنه كان كافلها وزوج خالتها، والقائل عن نفسه:

﴿وَقَدْ بَلَغْتُ مِنَ الْكِبَرِ عِتِيًّا﴾ [مريم: ٨]

وقد قال تعالى عن موسى وبنتي العبد الصالح:

﴿وَلَمَّا وَرَدَ مَاءَ مَدْيَنَ وَجَدَ عَلَيْهِ أُمَّةً مِنَ النَّكَاسِ يَسْقُونَ وَوَجَدَ مِنْ دُونِهِمُ امْرَأَتَيْنِ تَذُودَانِ قَالَ مَا خَطْبُكُمَا قَالَتَا لَا نَسْقِي حَتَّى يُصْدِرَ الرِّعَاءُ وَأَبُونَا شَيْخٌ كَبِيرٌ﴾
[القصص: ٢٣]

فهاتان امرأتان تخرجان لسقي الأغنام، ويكلمهما موسى ويسقي لهما. ولكن يقول المعارض أنهما اعتذرا عن الخروج إلى السقاية بكون أبيهما شيخاً كبيراً، وكانتا مع ذلك تذودان الماشية حتى لا تخالطا الرجال.

One might also object to the preceding evidence from the stories of the prophets because their practices were in accordance with their specific Sharia.²¹ Nevertheless, the correct position in the principles of jurisprudence is that the religious laws that came before us also apply to us, as long as our Sharia does not specifically abrogate them. So is the issue of intermixing one of the issues on which religious laws have differed?

It may be true that our Sharia contains stricter measures of chastity and abstention (from sexual immorality) than were imposed on others before us. Indeed, Allah (ﷻ) has promised to preserve the Qur'an, while the other nations have corrupted their books. It is He Who has made the matter of male-female relations stricter for us, because this particular fitnah (trial or temptation) was the most intense one for the previous nations. However, it is inconceivable that divine legislation should differ greatly over such issues since humans — their nature and their instincts — are the same as they were before, and since the five prime objectives of Sharia are also unchanged. One of these objectives includes the protection of lineage by ensuring that children are born within the family establishment. (The four قد يعترض أحد أيضًا على ما سبق من قصص الأنبياء متعللاً بأنه من شرع من قبلنا، ولكن الصواب في الأصول أن شرع من قبلنا شرع لنا ما لم يدل على نسخه شرعنا، فهل كان أمر الاختلاط من الأمور التي اختلفت فيها الشرائع؟ الحق أن ذلك وارد، وإن في شرعنا من التشديد على العفة والإحصان ما ليس في غيره. فإن الله تعالى قد تعهد بحفظ القرآن لما ضيعت الأمم السابقة كتبها، وشدد علينا في أمر العلاقة بين الجنسين لما كانت تلك الفتنة هي الأشد على الأمم السابقة. ولكن لا يتصور أن يختلف التشريع في هذه المسائل اختلافًا كبيرًا، والإنسان هو الإنسان، وغرائزه هي، والمقاصد الخمسة للشارع لم تتغير، ومنها حفظ النسل.

²¹ Sharia literally means a path to a body of water. In Islamic terminology, however, it refers to the sum total of Islamic laws revealed to the Prophet (ﷺ).

other objectives are the protection of religion, life, intellect and property.)

Evidence from the Sunnah

On the authority of ‘Abdullâh ibn ‘Amr ibn al-‘Âṣ (raḍiya Allâhu ‘anhu — may Allah be pleased with him), Allah’s Messenger (ﷺ) said:

«Let no man from now on visit a woman whose husband is absent, except when he has with him one or two (other) men.» (Muslim)

The aforementioned hadith indicates that such a level of intermixing is permissible when there is no seclusion (one man and one woman alone together) and they are safe from temptation; that is, the man and the woman are known to be pious and chaste. (The latter condition has been taken from the principles and other accounts of the Sunnah.)

The Messenger of Allah (ﷺ) was well aware of the praiseworthy protective jealousy of the men of his nation. Still, he was careful not to let this protectiveness become a reason for Muslim women to be deprived of the chance to visit the house of their Lord, even though he knew this would cause a certain type of intermixing.

دليلهم من السنة:

وعن عَبْدِ اللَّهِ بْنِ عَمْرٍو بْنِ الْعَاصِ أَنَّ رَسُولَ اللَّهِ ﷺ قَالَ:

«لَا يَدْخُلَنَّ رَجُلٌ بَعْدَ يَوْمِي هَذَا عَلَى مُغِيبَةٍ إِلَّا وَمَعَهُ رَجُلٌ أَوْ اثْنَانِ.»^{٢٢}

والحديث يدل على جواز ذلك القدر من الاختلاط عند عدم الخلوة وأمن الفتنة بأن يعرف عن الرجال والمرأة الصلاح والعفة.

لقد كان رسول الله ﷺ - وقد علم ما علم من غيرة أمته المحمودة على الأعراض - حريصاً ألا تكون هذه الغيرة سبباً في حرمان المرأة المسلمة من زيارة بيت ربها مع كون ذلك سبباً لحصول نوع اختلاط؛ فقال ﷺ: «لَا تَمْنَعُوا إِمَاءَ اللَّهِ

On the authority of Ibn ‘Umar (رضي الله عنه), the Prophet (ﷺ) said:

«Do not prevent Allah’s slave-women from going to Allah’s mosques.» (Muslim)

Look at the beauty of his expression. He said ‘Allah’s slave-women’. Through this expression, the master of concise wording and comprehensive meaning undoubtedly intended to indicate great and noble meanings and to draw attention to the rights of women, who, like men, are ‘slaves of Allah’. Hence, He instructed that they should not be prevented from frequenting the houses of the Great Master, the Noble Lord, the Merciful and Beloved, Glorious be the Most High in His Majesty. There is also no doubt, however, that coming to mosques leads to some level of intermixing with men, because the women’s rows, even if they are behind the men’s rows, are not very far from them.

It was reported from Sahl ibn Sa’d (رضي الله عنه):

«Indeed, I saw the men tying their izârs (garments which are worn wrapped around the lower half of the body) around their necks like little boys, due to the shortness of the izârs (when praying) behind the Prophet (ﷺ). So someone said: O you women, do not raise your heads until the men rise.» (Muslim)

مَسَاجِدَ اللَّهِ».^{٢٣} وانظر إلى جمال تعبيره ﷺ «إماء الله» فلا ريب أن صاحب جوامع الكلم ﷺ أراد أن يشير بهذا التعبير إلى معان جليلة عظيمة، وبينه على حق المرأة والتي تشارك الرجل في العبودية لله ألا تمنع من بيوت السيد الأعظم، والرب الأكرم، والمحجوب الأرحم؛ جل في علاه. ولا شك أن الإتيان إلى المساجد يفضي إلى نوع اختلاط بالرجال، فصفو فهن وإن كانت خلف الرجال فإنها ليست بعيدة، وقد روى مسلم عن سهل بن سعد قال: «لقد رأيت الرجال عاقدي أزرهم في أعناقهم مثل الصبيان من ضيق الأزر خلف النبي ﷺ فقال قائل: يا معشر النساء لا ترفعن رؤوسكن حتى يرفع الرجال».^{٢٤}

«It was reported on the authority of Abu Hurayrah (رضي الله عنه):

A man came to Allah's Messenger (ﷺ) and said: Verily, I am hungry and exhausted.

So he (ﷺ) sent to one of his wives (for food), but she said: By Him Who sent you with the truth, I have nothing but water.

Then, he sent to another (wife), and she said something similar, until all of them had said the same thing: No, by Him Who sent you with the truth, I have nothing but water.

So he (ﷺ) said: Who will host this man tonight? May Allah have mercy on him.

A man from the Anṣâr (the Muslim citizens of Madinah who gave refuge to the Prophet (ﷺ) and the other Muslim emigrants from Makkah) stood up and said: I will, O Messenger of Allah.

He headed with him to his house and asked his wife: Do you have anything? She replied: Nothing but my children's food.

He said: Then distract them (the children) with something, and when our guest enters, put out the lamp and make it look like we are eating. When

He said: So they sat, and the guest ate. When morning came, the Anṣāri man went to the Prophet (ﷺ), who said: Allah was well pleased with what you two did for your guest last night.» (Muslim)

In al-Muwatta',²⁶ it says that Imam Mâlik (may Allah have mercy on him) was asked: Is it permissible for a man and his wife to eat with another man?

Mâlik replied: There is nothing wrong with that if it is the known custom of the people.

However, Imam Aḥmad ibn Ḥanbal (may Allah have mercy on him) forbade men from eating with women from whom they were divorced.

It could be argued that this was before the verses of hijab were revealed. The response is that the full hijab — as will be proven later — was legislated as an obligation on the Mothers of the Believers and as a recommendation for others. This issue is a matter of scholarly debate, as is well-known. Besides, the Mothers of the Believers went for Hajj (the major pilgrimage to the Sacred Mosque in Makkah, to be undertaken by every able Muslim at least once in

«It was reported on the authority of Fâtimah bint Qays (raḍīya Allāhu 'anhā — may Allah be pleased with her), who said: I married Ibn al-Mugheerah, and he was at that time one of the best young men of Quraysh (the dominant tribe in Makkah at the time of the Prophet's mission; their society was based on polytheism). Then he was (fatally) wounded in the first jihad²⁷ with Allah's Messenger (ﷺ).

When I became a widow, 'Abdur-Rahmân ibn 'Awf was one of a number of the Companions of the Messenger of Allah (ﷺ) who proposed to me. Allah's Messenger (ﷺ) proposed to me on behalf of his freed slave, Usâmah ibn Zayd. I had been told that Allah's Messenger (ﷺ) had said: Whoever loves me, let him love Usâmah. So when Allah's Messenger (ﷺ) spoke to me, I told him: My affair is in your hands, so marry me to whomever you please.

وعن فاطمة بنت قيس قالت: «نكحتُ ابنَ المُغيرة وهو من خِيارِ شِبابِ قُرَيشٍ يومئذٍ فأصيبَ في أولِ الجهادِ معَ رسولِ اللهِ ﷺ فلما تأيَمتُ حَظَبَني عبدُ الرَّحمنِ بنُ عوفٍ في نفرٍ من أصحابِ رسولِ اللهِ ﷺ وخطَبَني رسولُ اللهِ ﷺ على مَولاهُ أسامةَ ابنِ زيدٍ وكُنتُ قد حدثتُ أن رسولَ اللهِ ﷺ قال: «من أحبَّني فليحبَّ أسامةً» فلما كلَّمَنِي رسولُ اللهِ ﷺ قلتُ: أمري بيدك فأنكحني من شئت. فقال: «انتقِلي إلى أمِّ شريكٍ». وأمُّ شريكٍ امرأةٌ عنيَّةٌ من الأنصارِ عَظيمةُ النِّفَّةِ في سبيلِ اللهِ ينزلُ عليها الضِّيفانُ، فقلتُ: سأفعل. فقال: «لا تفعلِني إنَّ أمَّ شريكٍ امرأةٌ كثيرةُ الضِّيفانِ فإنِّي أكرهُ أن يسقطَ عنكِ خمارُكِ أو ينكشِفَ الثوبُ عن ساقيكِ فيرى القومُ منكِ بعضَ ما تكْرهينَ ولكنَّ انتقِلي إلى ابنِ عمِّك عبدِ اللهِ بنِ عمرو ابنِ أمِّ مكتومٍ».²⁸

²⁷ Jihad literally means exerting one's utmost to realise an objective. It is not equivalent to war; it has a wider connotation and encompasses all kinds of striving in the cause of Allah (ﷻ): physical, intellectual and spiritual.

(28) (ق) صحيح مسلم ج 4 / ص 2261.

He said: Move in with Umm Shareek (until you finish your waiting period). Umm Shareek (رضي الله عنها) was a wealthy woman from the Anṣâr who used to spend a great deal in Allah's cause, and she hosted many guests.

I said: I will do so.

Then he said (changing his mind): Do not do that. Verily, Umm Shareek is a woman who has many guests. Verily, I would not like for your head covering to fall from you, or for your garment to be lifted from your leg, allowing people to see of you something that you would dislike their seeing. Instead, move in with your paternal cousin, 'Abdullâh ibn 'Amr ibn Umm Maktoom (who was blind).» (Muslim)

As-Sha'bi said:²⁹ We visited Fâṭimah bint Qays; she welcomed us with fresh dates, called Ibn Ṭâb, and she gave us a drink made from a type of grain. I asked her about a woman who has been divorced three times and where she should spend her waiting period. (Muslim) ²⁹ Abu 'Amr 'Amir ibn Sharaheel ash-Sha'bi (19-103AH) was one of the greatest narrators of Hadith from the generation of the tâbi'oon (those who knew or met any of the Companions and transmitted hadiths from them). He was called 'the leader of the believers' in terms of being a scholar of Hadith, which is the highest ranking amongst the scholars of that discipline. He was born in Kufa (currently in Iraq).

One day, Allah's Messenger (ﷺ) visited her and she fed him... Afterwards he slept and then woke up laughing.

She asked: What makes you laugh, O Messenger of Allah?

He replied: People from my Ummah (the entire global community of Muslims) were presented before me, waging war in Allah's cause, riding the open sea like kings on thrones.

She said: O Messenger of Allah, beseech Allah to make me one of them.

Umm Ḥarâm bint Milhân sailed the sea during the time of Mu'âwiyah (رضي الله عنه). Upon landing, she fell from her mount and died.» (Muslim)

Here we see that Allah's Messenger (ﷺ) slept at this woman's house — in the presence of others, of course — and she was asking him if she could be one of those who ride the open sea, waging war. He did not condemn her for that. On the contrary, he prayed for her as she asked, and Allah (ﷻ) accepted his prayer. As for the claim that he is special in this regard, there is no evidence of that. The basic principle (the default) is that the ruling is general. The fact is that he is like a father to the believers; it is reported that the Prophet (ﷺ) said: «Verily, I am like a father to you; I teach you...» (A sound hadith recorded by Abu Dâwood)

He harbored compassion and affection for them and remained committed to their welfare. The same legislation applied to him as it did to everyone else,

An-Nawawi said:

In this hadith, there is mention of intermixing of the women in the battle with their men in the midst of fighting, in order to bring them water and the like.³⁴

The battle of Uḥud took place before the verses of hijab were revealed, but women continued to participate in battles afterwards. Imam Aḥmad has related that six of the believing women were with the army that besieged Khaybar, and the Prophet (ﷺ) gave them a token portion of the spoils. (A weak hadith recorded by Abu Dâwood) قال النووي: «وفي هذا الحديث اختلاط النساء في الغزو برجالهن في حال القتال لسقي الماء ونحوه».³⁶ وأحدٌ كانت قبل آيات الحجاب ولكن بقي النساء يخرجن مع الغزاة بعدها، وروى الإمام أحمد أن ستاً من نساء المؤمنين كن مع الجيش الذي حاصر خيبر، وقد رضى لهن النبي ﷺ من الغنيمة.

She had soaked dried dates in a stone vessel overnight. When the Prophet (ﷺ) finished the food, she mashed it and served it to him to drink, to show great hospitality.» (Bukhari)

Hâfidh ibn Hajar al-'Asqalâni said: According to the hadith, it is permissible for a woman to serve her husband and those whom he has invited. It goes without saying that this can happen only where there is both safety from temptation and adherence to appropriate attire concealing the 'awrah (the part of a person's body that must be screened from public view).³⁷

It was reported on the authority of Yahyâ ibn Abi Sulaym, who said: I saw Samrâ' bint Nuhayk — a woman who lived during the lifetime of the Prophet (ﷺ) — wearing a thick, full-body garment and a thick, elaborate headcovering, with a whip in hand, disciplining

Rational explanations

1. Some people claim that intermixing curbs the desires, disciplines the instincts, and prevents repressed emotions and psychological complexes, and that separating the genders only makes the yearning stronger.

Perhaps this point of view (despite the exaggeration involved) bears some semblance of truth when the separation between the sexes becomes extreme, leading to constrained pathways to marriage. However, the objectors might say that we have not seen intermixing prevent any sexual desire and intense need for the opposite sex in permissive societies. On the contrary, it has only added to their chaos. In such societies, the rates of divorce and marital infidelity, and even sexual deviance (such as homosexuality) are rising as a result of people's consistent pursuit of the forbidden. Therefore, if we were to permit some of that which is forbidden, it would not curb people's desires; it would merely feed their demand for more, which would lead to the violation of more restraints. It might be said that prevention is better than cure, because stopping themselves is harder for those whose feet have already started to slide down a slippery slope. The longer it takes them to restrain themselves, the more quickly they will fall to the bottom. It will not be long before these individuals start clinging to others lest they fall alone; subsequently, all the people on that route will come crashing down together.

١- يدّعي البعض أن الاختلاط يكسر الشهوة، ويهذب الغريزة، ويقي من الكبت والعقد النفسية، فتباعد الجنسين يفضي إلى شدة التطلب.

ولعل هذا الكلام على ما فيه من المبالغة فيه جزء من الصواب عند المبالغة في العزل بين الجنسين. سيما مع ضيق السبل إلى الزواج. ولكن للمعارض أن يقول أننا لم نر الاختلاط قد منع شيئاً من الشبق الجنسي وشدة التطلب للجنس الآخر في المجتمعات الإباحية بل زادهم خبالاً على خبال، والمجتمعات الإباحية ترتفع فيها نسب الطلاق والخيانات الزوجية بل والشذوذ الناتج عن تطلع الإنسان لما هو ممنوع أو غريب. إذاً فإذا أبحنا بعض الممنوعات، فإن هذا لن يكسر شهوة الإنسان وتطلبه للمزيد منها ولكسر المزيد من القيود.

2. Intermixing provides an opportunity for a man to get to know a woman (in order to propose marriage) while she is commuting on the same route or is present at the same university or workplace; the percentage of unmarried women is rising in certain conservative societies due to the fact that few men can actually get to know women.

This conclusion is not entirely sound, due to multiple factors that affect the testing of the hypothesis. One could ask how we can be so sure that this is the sole reason why so many women remain unmarried. If judged impartially, other possible reasons might be the ever-rising cost of the wedding gift (dowry) presented by the groom to the bride, tribal loyalties, widespread unemployment in وقد يقال: إن الوقاية خير من العلاج والطريق الزلق يصعب على من زلت فيه قدمه أن يتدارك نفسه، وكلما تأخر في إلجام نفسه تسارع هويته إلى القعر. ولا يلبث هذا أن يتشبث بغيره حتى لا يكون وحده فيتهاووا جميعاً. (انظر إلى بعض الإحصائيات في الختام).

٢- الاختلاط يتيح الفرصة للرجل لمعرفة المرأة لطلب الزواج منها خلال ذهابها وإيابها أو في الجامعة أو مكان العمل، وإن معدلات العنوسة ترتفع في بعض المجتمعات المحافظة نتيجة لأن القليل من الرجال يعرفون عن المرأة. وهذا الاستنتاج لا يسلم لكثرة عوامل الخلط التي تؤثر على هذه الفرضية، فقد يقال: هل تأكدتم أن سبب العنوسة هو ذلك فقط دون ارتفاع المهور والعصبية للقبيلة والبطالة المنتشرة في العالم الإسلامي وغيرها من العوامل؟ ولكن أليس أيضاً في تضيق الدائرة الاجتماعية للمرأة على النحو المشاهد في بعض البيئات ما

the Muslim world, and other factors. Still, does narrowing women's social sphere, in the manner seen in certain societies, also lead to women being more unlikely to marry? Perhaps there is a grain of truth in this.

يؤدي إلى العنوسة! لعل في هذا شيء
من الصواب.

3. The restriction of women to certain fields has wasted their potential and limited their abilities. Thousands of women were scholars, jurists and qualified muftis (scholars capable of issuing religious edicts) in the past; however, the present-day Ummah has been unable to produce the likes of such women. Ḥâfidh ibn 'Asâkir himself acquired knowledge from three hundred women. Where are those women in our time? If one were to ask, "And where are the men who are like them?" there would be an element of truth to the objection. Nonetheless, it is no secret that the level of women's education and general knowledge has declined to a far greater extent.

إمكاناتها وتحجيم قدراتها. ولقد كان

Evidence from the Qur'an

دليلهم من القرآن:

Allah (ﷻ) has said in the Qur'an:

قال تعالى:

﴿And abide in your houses and do not display yourselves as [was] the display of the former times of ignorance. And establish prayer and give charity and obey Allah and His Messenger. Allah intends only to remove from you the impurity [of sin], O people of the [Prophet's] household, and to purify you with [extensive] purification.﴾

﴿وَقَرْنَ فِي بُيُوتِكُنَّ وَلَا تَبَرَّجْنَ تَبَرُّجَ
الْجَاهِلِيَّةِ الْأُولَىٰ وَأَقِمْنَ الصَّلَاةَ وَآتِينَ
الزَّكَاةَ وَأَطِعْنَ اللَّهَ وَرَسُولَهُ إِنَّمَا يُرِيدُ اللَّهُ
لِيُذْهِبَ عَنْكُمُ الرِّجْسَ أَهْلَ الْبَيْتِ وَيُطَهِّرَكُمْ
تَطْهِيرًا﴾ [الأحزاب: ٣٣]

(Qur'an 33: 33)

Remaining in their houses to prevent temptation was made obligatory on the Mothers of the Believers, as they were addressed first and foremost. However, the generality of 'illah in the saying of Allah (ﷻ): ﴿...to remove from you the impurity [of sin]...﴾ indicates that Muslim women of all times are also being addressed, for Allah, Most High, would not be pleased with the sins of any believing woman.

فإذا كان الأمر بالقرار لمنع الفتنة واجباً على أمهات المؤمنين بأولية توجه الخطاب لهن، فإن عموم العلة في قوله تعالى: ﴿لِيُذْهِبَ عَنْكُمُ الرِّجْسَ﴾ يدل على دخول غيرهن في الخطاب، فإنه تعالى ليس يرضى الرجس لأي مؤمنة.

In this respect, al-Kâsâni (may Allah have mercy on him)⁴¹ said:

It must be noted that the intention here is only to present the explanation and understanding of the aforementioned verses by the great Imams, not necessarily to concur with them on this particular edict.

Allah (ﷻ) has also said:

﴿O you who have believed, do not enter the houses of the Prophet except when you are permitted for a meal, without awaiting its readiness. But when you are invited, then enter; and when you have eaten, disperse without seeking to remain for conversation. Indeed, that [behavior] was troubling the Prophet, and he is shy of [dismissing] you. But Allah is not shy of the truth. And when you ask [his wives] for something, ask them from behind a partition. That is purer for your hearts and their hearts. And it is not [conceivable or lawful] for you to harm the Messenger of Allah or to marry his wives after him, ever. Indeed, that would be in the sight of Allah an enormity. ﴿ (Qur'an 33: 53)

Ibn Katheer (may Allah have mercy on him) said:

In other words: As I have prohibited you from visiting them, likewise, do not look at them at all. Even if one of you wants to get something from them, do not look at them or ask them for anything, except from behind a barrier.

Many of the scholars of Qur'anic interpretation have said that the 'hijab' mentioned in this verse (meaning 'screen' in this context) is particular to the wives of the Prophet (ﷺ).

Objectors, on the other hand, may say that the generality of the 'illah has been established from the implication of the verses. Therefore, Allah's saying: ﴿That is purer for your hearts and their hearts﴾ indicates a general ruling.

فَانْتَشِرُوا وَلَا مُسْتَسِينِينَ لِحَدِيثٍ إِنَّ ذَلِكَ كَانَ يُؤْذِي النَّبِيَّ فَيَسْتَحْيِي مِنْكُمْ وَاللَّهُ لَا يَسْتَحْيِي مِنَ الْحَقِّ وَإِذَا سَأَلْتُمُوهُنَّ مَتَاعًا فَسَأَلْتُمُوهُنَّ مِنْ وَرَاءِ حِجَابٍ ذَلِكُمْ أَطْهَرُ لِقُلُوبِكُمْ وَقُلُوبِهِنَّ وَمَا كَانَ لَكُمْ أَنْ تُؤْذُوا رَسُولَ اللَّهِ وَلَا أَنْ تَنْكِحُوا أَزْوَاجَهُ مِنْ بَعْدِهِ أَبَدًا إِنَّ ذَلِكَ كَانَ عِنْدَ اللَّهِ عَظِيمًا ﴿ [الأحزاب: ٥٣]

قال ابن كثير:

أي وكما نهيتكم عن الدخول عليهن كذلك لا تنظروا إليهن بالكلية ولو كان لأحدكم حاجة يريد تناولها منهن فلا ينظر إليهن ولا يسألهن حاجة إلا من وراء حجاب.

وقال كثير من المفسرين أن الحجاب المذكور في هذه الآية خاص بأزواج النبي ﷺ، وللمعترض أن يقول: إن عموم العلة الثابتة بمسلك الإيماء، وهي قوله تعالى: ﴿ذَلِكَ أَطْهَرُ لِقُلُوبِكُمْ وَقُلُوبِهِنَّ﴾ يفيد عموم الحكم. ولكن قد يقال غير ذلك، فقد أخرج البخاري عن أنس رضي الله عنه قال: قال عمر بن الخطاب رضي الله عنه: يا رسول الله يدخل عليك البر والفاجر فلو أمرت أمهات

However, the opposite could also be said, as per the following hadith, reported on the authority of Anas (رضي الله عنه): «Umar ibn al-Khaṭṭâb (رضي الله عنه) said: O Messenger of Allah! Both the pious and the immoral visit you, so what if you were to order the Mothers of the Believers with the hijab (to stay behind a curtain)? Allah, Most High, thereafter revealed the verse of the hijab.» (Bukhari)

The context of the verses, along with the instructions preceding and following the one about talking from behind a screen «...do not enter the houses of the Prophet... or to marry his wives after him», all imply that the ruling is specifically for the wives of the Prophet (ﷺ). The saying: «...That is purer for your hearts and their hearts...» does not refer to marrying the Mothers of the Believers after the Prophet's death, for this could not be imagined about them. The 'illah, we believe, is thus specific and not general.

Perhaps the command about the hijab was revealed because many men used to enter the houses of Allah's Messenger (ﷺ), and since he was the foremost teacher of the Ummah, he could not prevent them from doing so. Still, it was his right to feel assured that his women were protected and that those coming and going would not develop any inappropriate intentions in their hearts.

المؤمنين بالحجاب فأنزل الله تعالى آية الحجاب. وسياق الآيات ﴿لَا تَدْخُلُوا بُيُوتَ النَّبِيِّ إِلَّا... وَلَا أَنْ تَنْكِحُوا أَزْوَاجَهُ...﴾ يشير إلى الخصوصية. والمقصود من قوله: ﴿أَطْهَرُ لِقُلُوبِكُمْ﴾ عدم إضمار الزواج منهن بعده ﷺ، فإنه لا يظن بأمهات المؤمنين والصحابة غير ذلك. فالعلة إذاً فيما نرى خاصة.

ولعل الأمر بالحجاب هنا لكثرة دخول الرجال بيوت رسول الله ﷺ، ولكونه معلم الأمة الأول فلا يمكن منع الناس من بيوته، ولكن من حقه أن يشعر بحفظ حرمانه وأن هؤلاء الداخلين الخارجين لا يقع في قلوبهم شيء من السوء. قد يقال: إن جزءاً من هذا يعلم، فإن المرأة إذا كانت في

It is valid, however, to apply part of this ruling to all women who may not be dressed in their most appropriate attire at home. In this case, they should speak to strangers from behind a partition. This was the understanding of Shaykh al-Albâni (may Allah bestow mercy on him).

بيتها، وفي غير تمام هيئتها، وجب عليها أن تخاطب الزائر وصاحب الحاجة من وراء حجاب؛ أي: ساتر. (وكان هذا فهم الشيخ الألباني - رحمه الله - لهذه الآية).

Evidence from the Sunnah

دليلهم من السنة:

Allah's Messenger (ﷺ) has said:

«The prayer of a woman in (the family part of) her home is better than her prayer in the formal reception area, and her prayer in her own private quarters is better than her prayer in (the family part of) her home.» (Abu Dâwood)⁴⁵

قول رسول الله ﷺ:

«صَلَاةُ الْمَرْأَةِ فِي بَيْتِهَا أَفْضَلُ مِنْ صَلَاتِهَا فِي حُجْرَتِهَا، وَصَلَاتُهَا فِي مَخْدَعِهَا أَفْضَلُ مِنْ صَلَاتِهَا فِي بَيْتِهَا.»^{٤٦}

In fact, the Mother of the Believers, 'Â'ishah (رضي الله عنها), said:

Had Allah's Messenger (ﷺ) seen what the women have started to do, he would have prevented them from (going to) the mosque, just as the women of Bani (the children of) Israel were prevented. (Muslim)

بل قالت أم المؤمنين عائشة رضي الله عنها: «لَوْ أَنَّ رَسُولَ اللَّهِ ﷺ رَأَى مَا أَحْدَثَ النِّسَاءُ لَمَنَعَهُنَّ الْمَسْجِدَ كَمَا مَنَعَتْ نِسَاءَ بَنِي إِسْرَائِيلَ.»^{٤٧}

The Prophet (ﷺ) also said:

He further quoted ‘Abdullâh ibn Mas‘ood (رضي الله عنه), who said, “A woman is ‘awrah, and the closest she gets to Allah is when she is in her own private quarters, for when she goes out, the devil makes her appealing in the eyes of men.”⁵⁰

Ath-Thawri also said, “These days, I do not like for women to go out to the Eid prayers.”⁵¹

«The best of the men's rows are the first, and the worst are the last, while the best of the women's rows are the last, and the worst are the first.» (Muslim)

An-Nawawi (may Allah have mercy on him) said about the prayers, "Indeed, the last rows of the women attending with the Messenger were preferred due to their distance from intermixing with men, and the criticism of the first rows is the opposite."

«Anas (رضي الله عنه) reported that his grandmother, Mulaykah (رضي الله عنها), invited Allah's Messenger (ﷺ) to share some food she had cooked, so he (ﷺ) ate of it and then said: Stand, so that I may pray for you. Anas ibn Mâlik (رضي الله عنه) said: So I stood and headed to a mat of ours, which had turned black from long use. I sprinkled it with water, and Allah's Messenger (ﷺ) stood upon it. An orphan boy and I formed a row behind him, and the elderly woman was behind us. Allah's Messenger (ﷺ) led us in two units of prayer and then left.» (Muslim) that women can make rows behind men.

It was reported on the authority of Umm Salamah (رضي الله عنها), who said:

«When Allah’s Messenger (ﷺ) had performed the tasleem (the act of saying assalâmu ‘alaykum, the Islamic greeting that means ‘peace be upon you’ and indicates the end of the prayer), the women would stand immediately, while he would linger briefly before getting up.

did this by separating the rows of the women from those of the men, by remaining seated after the tasleem until the women had left, and by assigning a special door of the mosque to be used by women only. If such precautions were taken in the mosque, a pure place of worship in which men and women are the furthest from the provocation of desire, taking such measures elsewhere is undoubtedly important.

It was reported on the authority of Ibn Jurayj, who said:

‘Atâ’ informed me that when Ibn Hishâm prevented women from performing the ṭawâf (circumambulation of the Kaaba, the House of Allah in Makkah) with men, ‘Atâ’ asked: How does he prevent them when the wives of the Prophet (ﷺ) performed ṭawâf with men?

I (Ibn Jurayj) asked: Was that after the (verses of the) hijab or before?

He (‘Atâ’) replied: Yes, most verily, I saw that after the hijab.

I asked: How did they intermingle with men?

He said: They did not intermingle. ‘Ā’ishah (رضي الله عنها) used to circle the Kaaba while separated from men (or to the side), not intermixing with them.

This hadith is the basis for the prescription of having a barrier between men and women during ṭawâf and in prayer, because the Mother of the Believers did so in the presence of the Companions, and no one disputed with them about that.

«Abu Usayd al-Anṣârî (رضي الله عنه) related that as he was coming out of the mosque, men were mixing with women on the road. He heard Allah’s Messenger (ﷺ) tell the women: Stay back; it is not for you to walk in the middle of the road. Keep to the sides of the street. After that, a woman would stick to the wall so closely while walking that her clothes could catch on it.»⁶⁴

وقد روى أبو أسيد الأنصاري (رضي الله عنه) أنه سمع رسول الله ﷺ يقول وهو خارج من المسجد فاختلف الرجال مع النساء في الطريق، فقال رسول الله ﷺ للنساء: «استأخرن فإنه ليس لكن أن تحققن الطريق (تسرن وسط الطريق) عليكن بحافات الطريق». فكانت المرأة تلتصق بالجدار حتى إن ثوبها ليتعلق بالجدار من لصوقها به.^{٦٥}

Rational explanations:

دليلهم من التعليل:

1. Blocking the means

١ - سد الذرائع

One of the rules of the pure divine law is that if Allah (ﷻ) prohibits something, He also prohibits the ways and means which lead to it. The Most High has said:

من قواعد الشرع المطهر أن الله إذا حرم شيئاً حرم الأسباب والطرق المفضية إليه، قال تعالى:

﴿And do not approach unlawful sexual intercourse. Indeed, it is ever an immorality and is evil as a way.﴾

﴿وَلَا تَقْرَبُوا الزَّيْنَةَ إِنَّهُ كَانَ فَحِشَةً وَسَاءَ سَبِيلًا﴾ [الإسراء: ٣٢]

(Qur'an 17: 32)

The temptation of desire between the sexes is a great danger, so it is essential to be firm in cutting off all means to it.

وفتنة الشهوة بين الجنسين عظيمة الخطر، فينبغي الحزم في قطع ذرائعها.

In this respect, al-Kâsâni has said, "Since women's going out is undoubtedly a cause of fitnah, and fitnah is ḥarâm, then whatever leads to ḥarâm is ḥarâm."⁶⁷

وفي ذلك يقول الكاساني رحمه الله: «ولأن خروجهن سبب الفتنة بلا شك، والفتنة حرام، وما أدى إلى الحرام فهو حرام».⁶⁸

Ibn al-Qayyim (may Allah have mercy on him)⁶⁹ said:

There is no doubt that enabling women to intermingle with men is the basis for every affliction and evil, and it is one of the greatest causes for general punishments to be sent down. Also, it is one of the causes of destruction, both public and individual. Men's intermingling with women is one of the causes of rampant sin and unlawful sex, which in turn leads to mass mortality and continuous epidemics. When the prostitutes intermingled with Moses' soldiers and illicit sexual relations became widespread, Allah sent a plague upon them, and seventy thousand of them died in one day.⁷⁰

ويقول ابن القيم^{٧١} رحمه الله: «ولا ريب أن تمكين النساء من اختلاطهن بالرجال أصل كل بلية وشر، وهو من أعظم أسباب نزول العقوبات العامة، كما أنه من أسباب فساد أمور العامة والخاصة، واختلاط الرجال بالنساء سبب لكثرة الفواحش والزنا، وهو من أسباب الموت العام، والطواعين المتصلة، ولمَّا اختلطت البغايا بعسكر موسى وفشت فيهم الفاحشة أرسل الله عليهم الطاعون، فمات منهم في يوم واحد سبعون ألفاً.»^{٧٢}

This is happening in reality, and it is easy to behold. People are at their best and in full form in front of strangers, but while in their house, they are somewhat less than that. So perhaps a man sees his friend's wife and admires the softness of her voice, the delicacy of her frame, the sway of her walk, or even the excellence of her manners and the superiority of her intellect. Meanwhile, this woman looks at the husband of her sister or her friend and likes his sound logic, his stylish clothing, the respect he commands, or something else. People's eyes inevitably wander to what is in the hands of others. Thus, families who are afflicted by complacency in this issue, who sit all evening chatting in mixed company, will come to witness unenviable consequences.

في أحسن أحواله وتمام هيئته أمام الغرباء، ويكون في بيته في حال دون ذلك. فهذا يعجبه من امرأة صاحبه رخامة صوتها أو دقة قدها أو ميسانها في مشيتها أو حتى حسن أدبها ورجاحة عقلها، وتلك يعجبها من زوج أختها أو صاحبها سلامة منطقته أو حسن بزته أو وقاره أو غير ذلك. وابن آدم تصبو عينه إلى ما في يد غيره، فمن ابتلي بالتهاون في هذا الأمر من العائلات، فجلس للسمر الرجال والنساء الأوقات الطوال مختلطين، ظهر فيهم ما لا يحمد عقباه.

movements. It might also lead to women being very audacious and less modest. Although men and women should share the qualities of courage and mercy and confidence and sympathy, among other human virtues, there is a difference that must be maintained. Harmony of the family and the society cannot exist without recognizing this difference between men and women — a difference not only in their physical makeup, but also in their emotional and behavioral composition. Indeed, this is one of the conditions for obtaining perfect balance between gender roles.

5. The permitters argue that intermixing curbs the desires, disciplines the instincts and protects against repressed emotions and psychological complexes. The more conservative scholars replied to this argument by pointing out that none of that has happened in societies where intermixing and such permissiveness is common. On the contrary, it has just made the situation worse. Each year, in the U.S. alone, there are more than 200,000 people who are subjected to rape or sexual assault, and this number does not include victims under the age of twelve. Someone is sexually assaulted every two minutes; 38% of the rapists are

٥- أجبوا عن قول المجوزين بأن الاختلاط يكسر الشهوة، ويهدب الغريزة، ويقي من الكبت والعقد النفسية، بأن شيئاً من ذلك لم يحصل في المجتمعات التي يكثر فيها الاختلاط وتلك الإباحية، بل زادهم خبالاً، ففي أمريكا وحدها وفي عام واحد هو ٢٠٠١ تعرضت أكثر من مائتي ألف امرأة إلى الاغتصاب أو الاعتداء الجنسي من غير حساب عدد المعتصابات دون الثانية عشر. وتغتصب امرأة كل دقيقتين، و٣٨٪ منهن يغتصبن من المعارف و٧٪ من

And it doesn't stop there. In the United States alone, more than 100,000 children are waiting for families to adopt them because they have no parents to take care of them.⁷⁴

Do the Muslims want any of that for their communities, whether in the West or the East? We must remember that reactionary responses are behind most of the deviation from the moderate path of the religion.

Perhaps it appears from the previous exposition of evidence that it is not possible to issue a single ruling on something called 'ikhtilâṭ', or 'intermixing', without explanation and detail.

It also appears that the ruling on men interacting with women differs according to the ages of the individuals involved, the type of situation, the nature of the interaction and the level of necessity for it. Before going into detail, it is necessary to specify certain guidelines over which there should, ideally, be no differences.

لعله يظهر من استعراض ما سبق من الأدلة أنه لا يمكن إصدار حكم واحد عن شيء اسمه الاختلاط من غير بيان وتفصيل.

إن الذي يظهر أن حكم اختلاط الرجال بالنساء يختلف بحسب أعمار الرجال والنساء وبساط الحال وطبيعة المخالطة والحاجة الداعية إليها. ولكن قبل الكلام عن هذه التفصيلات، ينبغي من ذكر بعض الضوابط التي لا ينبغي الاختلاف بشأنها.

Restrictions that are not subject to debate

الضوابط التي لا ينبغي الاختلاف بشأنها

The prohibition of seclusion

تحريم الخلوّة

This is a matter of consensus as per the following hadith, where the Prophet (ﷺ) said:

وهذا أمر مجمع عليه؛ لقوله ﷺ:

«لَا يَخْلُونَ رَجُلٌ بِامْرَأَةٍ إِلَّا وَمَعَهَا ذُو

«No man should ever be alone with a woman except when she has a mahram (non-marriageable male relative) with her.» (Muslim)

Keeping the 'awrah covered

الالتزام بستر العورات

Allah (ﷻ) has said:

قال تعالى:

«... and not expose their adornment except to their husbands...»

﴿... وَلَا يُبْدِينَ زِينَتَهُنَّ إِلَّا لِبُعُولَتِهِنَّ﴾

(Qur'an 24: 31)

﴿... [النور: ٣١]﴾

Hijab is a code of conduct to be followed, not just a garment to be worn.

parts of her adornment which should remain covered, nor should she do anything that is seductive and may cause men to sinfully incline towards her. The Most High has said:

«...And let them not stamp their feet to make known what they conceal of their adornment...» (Qur'an 24: 31)⁷⁸

She should also not converse with men in a soft, flirtatious voice; instead she should speak in a businesslike, serious and respectable way. On this point, Allah (ﷻ) has said:

«... do not be soft in speech [to men], lest he in whose heart is disease should covet, but speak with appropriate speech.» (Qur'an 33: 32)

For a woman, lowering the voice is a part of expressing her good manners. Allah's Messenger (ﷺ) also indicated this when he told the men:

«Why is it that I have seen you clapping so much? Whoever has a concern in his prayer should say: Subhān Allāh (Glory be to Allah), for verily, if he says this, he will be noticed. Surely, clapping is for women.» (Muslim)

This hadith is about what to do during prayer, yet it indicates the difference between the voice of a woman and that of a man. Nevertheless, this does not in any way mean that a woman may not speak in the mosque. On the contrary, she may engage in discussion and offer arguments.

ولا تخضع بالقول في كلامها مع الرجال، بل تعرض حاجتها بجد والتزام، وفي ذلك يقول الله:

﴿فَلَا تَخْضَعْنَ بِالْقَوْلِ فَيَطْمَعَ الَّذِي فِي قَلْبِهِ مَرَضٌ وَقُلْنَ قَوْلًا مَعْرُوفًا﴾ [الأحزاب: ٣٢]

إن خفض المرأة لصوتها من حسن الأدب، وقد أشار إلى هذا المعنى رسول الله ﷺ حيث قال للرجال: «مالي رأييكم أكثرتم التصفيق من نابه شيء في صلاته فليستب فإنه إذا سبح التفت إليه وإنما التصفيق للنساء»^{٧٩} إن هذا الأمر في الصلاة، وفيه إشارة إلى الفرق بين صوت المرأة والرجل، ولكنه لا يعني بحال أن المرأة لا تتكلم في المسجد، بل وتناقش وتراجع، فهذه المجادلة قد

Take, for example, al-Mujâdilah (meaning ‘the woman who disputed’). Her Lord heard her from above the seven heavens. She had come to complain to the Prophet (ﷺ), the best of His creation and the head of the leaders and scholars, concerning an incident that had taken place between her husband and her. Contrast this with Paul, whom Christians consider to be an apostle. He ordered women to remain silent in the church, while Muhammad (ﷺ), the apostle of truth and guidance, let women dispute with him. In the case of this woman, her Lord (ﷻ) defended her and supported her argument with Qur’anic verses to be recited until the end of this world. Her case has been immortalized, for even the name of this chapter of the Qur’an (Chapter 58, al-Mujâdilah) reminds us of her.

Returning to the topic at hand, women have been instructed not to walk with a swaying gait or to allow their manner of walking to contain anything which attracts men’s attention towards them. Allah’s Messenger (ﷺ) said about these women who sway when they walk and make men’s hearts incline towards them:

سمعتها ربها من فوق سبع سماوات وهي
تجادل خير خلقه وسيد الأئمة والعلماء
فيما كان بينها وبين زوجها. إن بولس، الذي

النساء في الكنائس، ومحمد رسول الحق

ولا تتمايل في مشيتها أو يكون فيها ما
من شأنه لفت انتباه الرجال إليها. يقول
رسول الله ﷺ عن المرأة التي تتمايل في
مشيتها فتميل قلوب الرجال: «...وَسَاءٌ

«...and women who are dressed yet appear naked, who are inclined to evil and make others incline towards it also. Their heads are like the humps of camels leaning over to one side. They will not enter paradise, nor will they find its scent, even though its scent is surely present at a distance of such-and-such and such-and-such.» (Muslim)

Women should not wear perfume or clothing that draws attention for being distinctively unique. In a hadith:

«Do not prevent Allah's slave-women from going to Allah's mosques.» (Muslim)

Abu Dâwood added:

«Let them go out without wearing perfume.»⁸⁰

An-Nawawi said, "...meaning unscented [and the hadiths on this topic are many], and because if she wears perfume and attractive, distinctive clothing, this invites corruption."⁸¹

The prohibition of physical contact

تحريم تلامس الأبدان

The scholars of fiqh are in agreement about the prohibition of non-maḥram individuals of opposite sexes touching each other, although some have made an exemption for shaking hands with elderly men or women.

فإن الفقهاء قد اتفقوا على حرمة لمس الأجنبية، إلا أن منهم من رخص في مصافحة العجوز. ولا ينبغي التهاون في ذلك بين المسلمين.

As for seeking concessions in the matter of shaking hands to conform to the culture of one's country, this requires some detail.

أما التفريط في أمر المصافحة لموافقة الثقافة السائدة، فيحتاج إلى تفصيل:

First of all, without a doubt, one's location and the implications of conforming to or rejecting certain practices might affect the Islamic ruling. Waiving the Islamic penal code can only be done during exceptional circumstances, such as during times of war. In the same vein is what Imam Ibn Taymiyah⁸⁶ (may Allah have mercy on him) has mentioned about following the disbelievers

أولاً: نحن لا نشك أن اختلاف المكان وما يتبعه من تغير الواقع قد يؤثر على الفتوى الشرعية، وما إسقاط الحدود في دار الحرب إلا من هذا الباب، ومنه ما ذكره الإمام ابن تيمية رحمه الله^{٨٧} من عدم مخالفة الكفار في الهدى الظاهر في دارهم، قال: «ومثل ذلك اليوم: لو أن المسلم بدار

He participated in the jihad against the Mongols and also led an intellectual jihad against innovation in the religion and corruption in politics. He was born in Ḥarrân (in Syria).

in terms of their outward appearance in their lands.

He said: Today if Muslims are in the abode of war, or in the abode of disbelievers who are non-combatants [that is, the abode of treaty], they are not commanded to contradict the disbelievers in their outward appearance, since that would bring them harm. Rather, it might be preferable or obligatory to conform sometimes in outward appearance if there would be a religious benefit in that, in terms of calling the people to Islam or seeing their affairs from the inside in order to inform the Muslims about that [in the abode of war], to prevent them from harming the Muslims, or anything of the sort from among pious objectives.⁸⁸

It must be noted that the words of the Shaykh of Islam do not sanction abandoning obligations or doing anything prohibited. The fact that one has relocated to another country is no excuse to start committing sins, indulge in prohibited acts or neglect religious injunctions and obligations, thus combining migration away from the lands of Islam with greater sins which will necessarily take one further away from Allah حرب أو دار كفر غير حرب لم يكن مأموراً بالمخالفة لهم في الهدي الظاهر لما عليه من الضرر. بل قد يستحب للرجل أو يجب عليه أن يشاركهم أحياناً في هديهم الظاهر إذا كان في ذلك مصلحة دينية من دعوتهم إلى الدين والاطلاع على باطن أمرهم لإخبار المسلمين بذلك أو دفع ضررهم عن المسلمين ونحو ذلك من المقاصد الصالحة»^{٨٩}.

ولكن المذكور في كلام شيخ الإسلام لا يتعلق بترك الواجبات أو فعل المحرمات، وتغيير الدار لا ينبغي أن يجرى المرء على مقارفة الآثام والمحرمات والتفريط في الأوامر والواجبات فيجمع إلى هجرته من بلاد الإسلام إلى غيرها إثمًا وحويًا يزيد من الله بعدًا. إن الفقهاء متفقون على أن المسلم مكلف بشرائع الإسلام في كل

(ﷺ). Scholars of fiqh have agreed that Muslims are accountable for the rites and injunctions of Islam in any location, except in cases where there are differences concerning some transactions, and that is not our concern here.

Secondly, if the intention is to apply this culture to that of the Muslims, then there is nothing more obviously corrupt than this point of view. If the intent is to attach little importance to this issue with non-Muslims, this is also corrupt. However, if what is intended is to make certain exceptions to avoid great embarrassment should a Muslim be approached for a handshake, then perhaps the matter is less serious, for the following reasons:

There is no doubt that the strength of the ruling depends on the weight of the evidence, in terms of authenticity and textual implications. Concerning the prohibition of shaking hands with the opposite gender, the Prophet (ﷺ) said: «Indeed, I do not shake hands with women.»⁹⁰

This does not reach the level of prohibition. The most it can indicate is that it probably falls somewhere among three categories: prohibited, disliked and another layer that is between disliked and merely permissible (so that even if it is not clear that the action is disliked, a person with a strong commitment to religion and a high level of integrity would choose not to do it). It is closer to being disliked, though, because this situation required the Prophet (ﷺ) to take the pledge of allegiance from women and not put them in an embarrassing position. Thus his act (of not shaking hands with women) was not simply out of a desire to preserve the highest level of integrity; therefore, the ruling falls somewhere between being disliked and being prohibited. What is certain is that it is at least disliked.

ثانيًا: فإن كان المقصود سحب تلك الثقافة على ما يكون بين المسلمين، فما أظهر فساد هذا الرأي، أو كان المقصود التهاون في ذلك مع غير المسلمين، ففاسد أيضًا، ولكن إن قصد بعض الترخيص لدفع حرج ما إذا بدئ المسلم بالمصافحة، فلعل الأمر يكون هنا أهون، وذلك للأسباب الآتية:

⁹⁰ at-Ṭabarâni in al-Mu'jam ul-Kabeer, 24/342; authenticated in Ṣaḥeḥ al-Jâmi', 8054.

The Prophet (ﷺ) also said:

«That a man be speared through the head with an iron needle would be better than for him to touch a woman who is not permissible for him.»⁹¹

The word that is translated here as ‘touch’ is a homonym, having more than one meaning. In Sharia terminology, it is most frequently used to refer to sexual intercourse.

The prohibition of shaking hands with the opposite gender falls into the category of prohibiting the means leading to the ḥarâm; it is not, in its essence, ḥarâm. Something that is prohibited because it may lead to a major sin is less evil in degree than something that is prohibited in itself for its essence.

The agreement of our jurists on the prohibition of men shaking hands with young women and vice versa is enough for us to refrain from this act which is, without doubt, not a practice of the Muslims, and which does open the door to greater evils. Muslims must not be the first to extend their hand. They must let those around them — their neighbors or co-workers — know that they do not shake hands with members of the opposite sex. However, if they were to shake hands on rare occasions when someone initiates a handshake, in order to avoid some sort of significant embarrassment, we hope that they would be forgiven.

Lowering the gaze

مراعاة غض البصر

The Most High has said:

قال تعالى:

«Tell the believing men to reduce [some] of their vision and guard their private parts. That is purer for them. Indeed, Allah is Acquainted with what they do. And tell the believing women to reduce [some] of their vision and guard their private parts...»

﴿قُلْ لِلْمُؤْمِنِينَ يَغُضُّوا مِنْ أَبْصَارِهِمْ وَيَحْفَظُوا فُرُوجَهُمْ ذَلِكَ أَزْكَ لَهُمْ إِنَّ اللَّهَ خَبِيرٌ بِمَا يَصْنَعُونَ﴾. [النور: ٣٠]

(Qur'an 24: 30-31)

Thus, no one should look at the ‘awrah of another, look with desire, or repeat a coincidental glance, without need.

فلا ينظر أحد إلى أي عورة سواء كان ذلك بشهوة أو بغير شهوة إلا للضرورة، ولا يكرر النظر إلا لحاجة.

Avoiding indecency and joking around

تجنب الفحش والعبث

All Muslim parents should raise their sons and daughters to be modest, for that is the signature characteristic of Islam. Allah’s Messenger (ﷺ) said:

«Verily, every religion has its signature characteristic, and the signature characteristic of Islam is modesty.» (Recorded by Ibn Mâjah with a reliable chain of narrators)

It follows from this hadith that they should refrain from indecent and obscene speech. They should also avoid laughing and joking together, for Satan is never closer to their hearts than when they are in this state in informal mixed gatherings. This point is usually countered with the following report:

The Prophet (ﷺ) joked with a woman about her husband, saying (according to his biographers): Your husband is the one whose eyes are white (customarily meaning blinded by cataracts, but he meant the normal white of the eye).

There is disagreement over this hadith, as al-'Irâqi mentioned in his revision and annotation of Iḥyâ' 'Uloom ad-Deen. Even if one supposes it to be sound, the situation of the Prophet (ﷺ) with this woman is in no way similar to boys and girls getting together to laugh and joke around. As for elderly women, there is nothing wrong with speaking to them in jest. On the contrary, it may even be recommended in certain situations. In fact, Allah's Messenger himself (ﷺ) also did so, and it was only a result of his good manners and humility.

Minding the principle of women abiding in their homes and that their homes need them

مراعاة مبدأ القرار وحاجة البيوت إلى النساء

It is permissible for a woman to leave her home to study, work or fulfill other needs, as per the following hadith:

«When the maternal aunt of Jâbir (may Allah be pleased with them) was divorced, and she wanted to leave her home to attend to her palm trees, a man reprimanded her for going out during her waiting period.

She went to the Prophet (ﷺ), who told her: No, attend to your date palms (it said pick, and she was most likely going to observe the picking), for perhaps you will give charity or do something good.» (Muslim)

However, even if women are permitted to go outside the home to work, fulfill their needs, or visit the mosque, we should not be neglectful of the default instruction of remaining at home. The hadith specifying that it is better for a woman to pray inside her home also issues a warning to women not to come and go frequently, visiting one place after another as some women do. This would not allow her to take care of the house. For instance,

يجوز للمرأة أن تخرج للدراسة والعمل وقضاء حوائجها، فلقد قال رسول الله ﷺ لخالة جابر رضي الله عنه، وقد طلقت فأرادت الخروج، فزجرها رجل: «بلى فجددي [أو جدي بالمعجمة] نَحْلُكَ فَإِنَّكَ عَسَى أَنْ تَصَدَّقِي أَوْ تَفْعَلِي مَعْرُوفًا».^{٩٦}

ولكن وإن جوزنا للمرأة الخروج للعمل أو قضاء حوائجها أو التردد على المساجد، فلا ينبغي أن نهمل مبدأ القرار. وفي حديث تفضيل صلاة المرأة في البيت تنبيه للمرأة على عدم الإكثار من الخروج والدخول والذهاب والمجيء كما تفعل السلف (قليلة الحياء، البذيئة)، فإنه لا يصلح لرعاية البيت مثلاً أن تصلي خمسها في المسجد، فما الذي يبقى من قوله تعالى

if she were to pray all five prayers at the mosque, what would remain of the following saying of Allah?

«And abide in your houses...» (Qur'an 33: 33)

Moreover, if she is a mother, would she leave her children five times a day without supervision? Indeed, the warning of scholars such as Imam Mâlik (may Allah have mercy on him) regarding frequenting the mosque is important and beneficial; it should not be ignored or overlooked.

Women working outside the home should not be regarded as the norm, even if it is permissible. Making working women the norm in households in the West has led to enormous drawbacks, from a rise in the divorce rate to the disintegration of the family. Neglect of children is another consequence that has emerged, subjecting many of the young ones to psychological and behavioral disorders in addition to obstructing their learning process. In fact, the issue has even contributed to the spread of medical conditions such as obesity, heart disease and high blood pressure, resulting from massive changes in the types of food eaten and from a reliance on fast food.

In the same vein, even a woman who works in the field of da'wah (teaching

Details on intermixing

Detailed clarification on the issue of intermixing must be derived from a fair, impartial and thorough study of the evidence. This must be considered in totality whenever possible, without neglecting any aspect and without deriving an arbitrary or domineering interpretation of it.

It appears to me — as I have said previously — that the ruling on the intermixing of men and women differs according to the age of the men and women involved, the type of situation, the nature of the interaction and the degree of necessity. The following are the details and explanations in that regard:

Age

It seems that there is some relaxation in the matter of intermixing with the advancing age of those involved, even if the woman is not post-menopausal. There is an undeniable difference between a sixteen year old and a fifty year old. As a woman reaches an advanced age, becoming less interested

التفصيل في مسألة الاختلاط

أما التفصيل في مسألة الاختلاط، فينبغي أن يكون ناتجاً عن استقراء منصف متجرد للأدلة وإعمالها جميعاً متى أمكن دون إهمال أي منها أو التعسف والتحكم في تأويل بعضها.

لقد ظهر لي - كما سبق - أن حكم اختلاط الرجال بالنساء يختلف بحسب أعمار الرجال والنساء وبساط الحال بما في ذلك طبيعة المخالطة والحاجة الداعية إليها. وهذا بعض التفصيل والبيان في ذلك:

الأعمار

إن من الظاهر لنا أن هناك تخفيفاً في أمر الاختلاط مع تقدم العمر وإن لم تكن المرأة من القواعد، ولا شك في أن هناك فرقاً بين بنت السادسة عشرة وصاحبة الخمسين، فمتى أيست كان التخفيف أكثر.

in sex and less sexually tempting to men, there is a greater relaxation of the rules.

The same is the case with a man whose hair has turned white and who has reached an extremely old age.

This can be derived from many reports, including the Prophet's permission for Umm Shareek to be inundated with guests, while he prevented Fâtimah from spending her waiting period there because of the same guests.

There was also Samrâ' bint Nuhayk, who was an elderly woman when she assumed the responsibility for enjoining good and forbidding evil in the marketplace.

Also noteworthy are instances such as the Prophet (ﷺ) jesting with the elderly woman, Zachariah (ﷺ) visiting Maryam in her prayer room, Sarah standing before her husband's two guests, and others.

The type of situation

It seems that the scholars are stricter concerning the matter of intermixing in situations of play, entertainment, foolish recreation, and joyous occasions such as weddings and birth celebrations.

والأمر كذلك في حق الرجل الذي اشتعل رأسه شيئاً وبلغ من الكبر عتياً.

ويستفاد من النصوص أمور عدة، منها ما جاء من سماح النبي ﷺ لأُم شريك أن يغشاها الضيفان، ومنعه فاطمة من الاعتداد عندها لكثرتهم. وكذلك فإن سمراء بنت نهيك لم تكن بالشابة الصغيرة عندما تولت الأمر بالمعروف في السوق. ومزاحه ﷺ مع العجوز. إضافة إلى دخول زكريا على مريم وقيام سارة بين أيدي الضيفان وغير ذلك من الأمور.

بساط الحال

يظهر أن العلماء يشددون في منع الاختلاط في أحوال اللعب والعبث وشدة الفرح كالأفراح والموائد.

Al-Ḥamawī (may Allah have mercy on him)⁹⁷ said:

The correct opinion is that weddings are not disliked as long as they do not involve anything ḥarām, as it says in al-Fathḥ. I say: It is ḥarām in our times, not just disliked, as a result of matters that are no secret, one of which is the intermixing of women with men.⁹⁸

Ibn Farḥown (may Allah have mercy on him) has said, regarding wedding ceremonies in which men and women intermingle, that their legal testimony for each other will no longer be accepted, especially if the wedding contains that which the Legislator (Allah) has prohibited. That is because when women attend such events, their credibility is lost.

Keep in mind that Umm Usayd, as a hostess, served the Prophet (ﷺ) and his companions, but that does not mean that there was mixing of both genders or even that she herself stayed there after serving them. Moreover, the rarity of that occurrence was what made the narrator interested in mentioning it.

قال الحموي^{٩٩} رحمه الله:

«والمختار أن الزفاف لا يكره إذا لم يشتمل على مفسدة، كما في الفتح). قلت: وهو حرام في زماننا فضلاً عن الكراهة لأمر لا تخفى عليك منها اختلاط النساء بالرجال». ^{١٠٠} بل إن ابن فرحون رحمه الله يقول في الأعراس التي يمتزج فيها الرجال والنساء: لا تقبل شهادة بعضهم لبعض إذا كان فيه ما حرمه الشارع، لأن بحضورهن هذه المواضع تسقط عدالتهن.

The restrictions are, likewise, stricter in crowded and chaotic settings

In this respect, as-Sarkhasi (may Allah have mercy on him) said:

The judge must allow women to present their case alone and then let the men present their case alone, because people crowd together in his assembly, while the fitnah and indecency that results from the intermixing of women and men in a crowd is no secret. That could only be when the dispute is between two women, though. If the dispute is between men and women, there would be no other alternative than to present their case with the men.¹⁰¹

Also in this category are funerals, about which Ibn al-Hâj (may Allah have mercy on him) said:

He should be careful not to fall into what some people these days do, in terms of women and men intermixing, by attending, revealing their faces, blackening them and other parts of their bodies, pulling their hair and making supplications

وكذلك في أحوال التزاحم والفوضى

ومن ذلك قول السرخسي رحمه الله:

«وينبغي للقاضي أن يقدم النساء على حدة والرجال على حدة؛ لأن الناس يزدهمون في مجلسه، وفي اختلاط النساء مع الرجال عند الزحمة من الفتنة والقبح ما لا يخفى، ولكن هذا في خصومة يكون بين النساء. فأما الخصومة التي تكون بين الرجال والنساء لا يجد بدءاً من أن يقدمهن مع الرجال»^{١٠٢}

ومن ذلك الجنائز، وفي ذلك يقول ابن الحاج رحمه الله:

«وليحذر أن يقع بحضرته ما يفعله بعض الناس في هذا الزمان من اختلاط النساء بالرجال وكشف وجوههن وتسويدها

for situations of distress and destruction.¹⁰³

In addition, an-Nawawi (may Allah have mercy on him) said:

Among the repugnant innovations initiated by the common folk during these times is the lighting of candles on Mount 'Arafah on the night of the ninth [of Dhul-Hijjah] or otherwise. They bring the candles from their countries for that [purpose], and they take great pains to safeguard them. This is a gross error in which they have combined several types of offenses, among which are wasting money on inappropriate things and exhibiting the rites of the Zoroastrians in safeguarding the fire; also included is the intermixing of men and women when there are candles in their midst and their faces are clearly visible.¹⁰⁴

This is not the same as being in the mosque, as an-Nawawi himself says concerning women who pray the Friday prayer there, "Intermixing of women with men, if it is not in seclusion, is not ḥarâm."¹⁰⁵

وتسويد بعض أجسادهن ونشر الشعور،
والدعاء بالسويل والثبور.^{١٠٦}

ومن ذلك قول النووي رحمه الله:

وهذا بخلاف الحال في المسجد،

What we have mentioned is the correct stance, for certainly the gathering of men and women in close proximity, or with their bodies touching, pressed up against one another, is among the causes of temptation and arousal of desire. I implore my brothers and sisters not to fall prey to what the mainstream media and some of the public claims about self-restraint; they declare any degree of intermixing to be manageable and without any harm.

The nature of the interaction

Without doubt, there is a difference between men and women gathering in the mosque to discuss an issue or to organize certain da'wah activities, and families sitting in their homes to eat and spend the evening in idle chit-chat. It may be permissible for a woman to serve her husband's guests if it is not done on a regular basis. Abu Usayd's wife served food and drink to the Prophet (ﷺ) and his Companions on a special occasion, merely to show him hospitality on her wedding day. It was not their custom, or else the matter would not have been noteworthy enough for the narrator to mention, "And no one made the food, or served it to them, but his wife herself."

وهذا الذي ذكرنا متجه فإن اجتماع الرجال والنساء مع القرب الشديد أو تضام الأجسام ومزاحمة بعضهم لبعض، من أسباب الفتنة وثوران الشهوة.

فلا شك أن هناك فرقاً بين اجتماع عدد من الرجال والنساء في مسجد لمناقشة أمر أو ترتيب بعض المناشط الدعوية، وبين جلوس العائلات في البيوت على طعام وسمر. أما تقديم المرأة طعاماً لأضياف زوجها فقد يجوز على غير سبيل العادة، فإن ما ذكر من تقديم زوج أبي أسيد الطعام والشراب للنبي وأصحابه إنما كان لإتحافه وإظهار الترحيب به في يوم عرسها، ولم تكن عاداتهم وإلا لما استحق الأمر أن يقول الراوي: «فما صنَعَ لهم طعاماً ولا قَرَبَهُ إِلَيْهِمْ إِلَّا امْرَأَتُهُ» وما ذكر من حديث الرجل المجهود، فإنه غريب فقير مجهود،

There is also the hadith of the hungry and exhausted man, but he was a poor, tired stranger. They put out the lamp, and perhaps the wife was at one end of the room, far from the two men, in which case there would be nothing wrong with the situation. Eating together at the same table, with women facing the men, should not happen — because how can we lower our gaze while sitting for a long time at the same table facing each other? As for the women being in the same room, there is nothing wrong with that if they distance themselves from the men.

(This is the correct understanding if one does not consider the verses of hijab to abrogate the rulings deduced from this hadith and many others that were not clearly reported to have occurred after the revelation of the verses about the hijab in the chapter of the Qur'an chapter named al-Aḥzâb. What is superior among the various scholarly opinions, in my assessment, is the lack of abrogation, for reconciliation between the texts is possible. Note that the hijab mentioned in the verse means to have a screen between men and women, which is applicable according to some scholars, such as Shaykh al-Albâni, to all women at home, since they would not be fully covered there.)

In the case of gathering in the mosque, there must be some distance between the seating areas of men and women. Facing each other should be avoided as much as possible in order to guard their modesty and to aid both groups in lowering their gaze and guarding the purity of their hearts. The following diagram shows an example of the type of distance intended to avoid face-to-face seating.

وفي حال الاجتماع في المسجد ينبغي أن يكون هناك قدر من التباعد والفسح

بين مجالس الرجال والنساء وأن تجتنب
المواجهة قدر المستطاع حفاظاً على الحياء
والتستر وإعانة للمجتمعين على غض البصر
وسلامة القلب. وفي الرسم الآتي إظهار
للمقصود من التباعد وعدم المواجهة.

The level of necessity

There are many different needs which might call for some sort of intermixing. For example, in the case of warfare, the women's going out was not necessary, because it was not the case that the men went all at once to fight, leaving only the women to provide medical and nursing care.

الحاجة

هناك الكثير من الحوائج الداعية إلى شيء من الاختلاط، وذلك كالقتال، وليس خروج النساء هنا لضرورة، فإن الرجال لم يكونوا يخرجون عن بكرة أبيهم للقتال، فلا يبقى للمداواة إلا النساء.

There is a distinction between need (hâjah) and necessity (daroorah, meaning that which is required for human survival, without which one's life, organs or senses would be in danger). Need — not necessity — is apparent in the hadith about the Prophet (ﷺ) offering Asmâ' (رضي الله عنها) a ride on his camel while he was with a group of the Anṣâr. She understood that he wanted her to ride behind him, and that was because of who he was; he was older than her father and he could see that carrying the date stones for Zubayr's horse had made her tired.

If a Muslim man comes across a Muslim woman stranded along the way, he should not let his sense of pious caution allow him to leave her without offering to help. Of course, he should lower his gaze and limit himself to either ensuring that she gets what she needs or leading her to a safe place.

It is not pious caution to leave old women alone at home without any monitoring or care.

Imam Mâlik was asked about an elderly, unmarried woman who seeks a man's help, so he does what she needs and offers his services, "Would you consider this a good deed?" He said, "There is nothing wrong with it — although it is more favorable to me if he gets someone else to go with him — for if people leave her, she will perish.” Ibn Rushd said, “This is the case if he averts his gaze from what he is not permitted to look at.”

والحاجة دون الضرورة ظاهرة في عرضه ﷺ على أسماء أن يركبها بعيره، ومعه نفر من الأنصار، وقد فهمت أنه أراد أن يردفها خلفه، وذلك كله لكونه أكبر من أبيها، وهو من هو، وقد أتعبها حمل النوى لفرس الزبير. والذي ينبغي على المسلم في زماننا إذا رأى في الطريق امرأة مسلمة انقطع بها السبيل ألا يحمله الورع على تركها دون بذل العون لها مع غض البصر والاكتفاء بقضاء حاجتها أو إيصالها إلى ما منها.

وليس من الورع كذلك ترك العجائز في البيوت من غير تفقد ورعاية، ولقد سئل الإمام مالك عن المرأة العزبة الكبيرة تلجأ إلى الرجل، فيقوم لها بحوائجها، ويناولها الحاجة، هل ترى ذلك له حسناً؟ قال: «لا بأس به، وليدخل معه غيره أحب إلي، ولو تركها الناس لضاعت». قال ابن رشد: «هذا على ما قال إذا غض بصره عما لا يحل له النظر إليه».

A woman may go out of her house to participate in acts of goodness, to acquire knowledge or to fulfill her needs from the marketplace. It is permissible for her to attend the daily congregational prayers, the Friday congregational prayer, and the two Eid prayers, along with the obligatory Hajj. In fact, some scholars have even permitted her to travel in the company of pious men. Likewise, it is permissible for her to deal with men while buying and selling, renting accommodation and so on.

Also counted among the needs for which a woman may leave her home is the need of a single woman to get married, so if she attends Islamic conferences and meetings with chastity and reserve, in order to become known and interact with people, that would be permissible. There is a need for that in the Western countries, since the Muslims are widely dispersed and they do not get together except at these assemblies. Also, there were some among the female Companions who would beautify themselves in order to receive marriage proposals.

«Subay‘ah reported that she was married to Sa‘d ibn Khawlah, who was from Bani ‘Âmir ibn Lu‘ay and had witnessed Badr. He passed away during the farewell pilgrimage, while she was pregnant. (Note that this was long after the revelation of the hijab verses.) Not long after his death, she gave birth. When she saw that her post-partum bleeding had safely come to an end, she beautified herself to receive marriage proposals. (It has been added, in a version by Aḥmad, that she applied kohl. In a report by Ibn Is-ḥâq, deemed sound by al-Albâni, it has been said that she applied henna to her hands.)

Then Abu as-Sanâbil ibn Ba‘kak, a man from Bani ‘Abd ad-Dâr, visited her (in Aḥmad’s version: met her) and said to her: Why do I see that you have beautified yourself? Perhaps you hope to get married? By Allah! You are not going to get married until four months and ten days have passed! (Notice that this was long after the revelation of the hijab verses, yet Subay‘ah had beautified herself and let herself be seen by this man without a screen separating them.)

Subay‘ah said: After he said that to me, I gathered my clothes when night fell, went to Allah’s Messenger (ﷺ) and asked him about that. He ruled for me that it had become permissible for me to marry when I gave birth, and he ordered

لِلْخُطَّابِ [وفي رواية أحمد اکتحلت] [وفي رواية لابن إسحاق قواها الألباني: واختضبت] [فدخل عليها] [وفي رواية أحمد: فلقبها] أبو السنابل بن بعكك رجل من بني عبد الدار، فقال لها: «مالي أراك متجملة لعلك ترجين النكاح إنك والله ما أنت بناكح حتى تمر عليك أربعة أشهر وعشراً». قالت سبعة: «فلما قال لي ذلك جمعت علي ثيابي حين أمسيت فأتيت رسول الله ﷺ فسألته عن ذلك، فأفتاني بأني قد حللت حين وصعت حملي وأمرني بالتزوج إن بدالي».^{١٠٩}

(allowed) me to get married if I saw fit to do so.» (Muslim and Aḥmad)

It appears that there is an element of tolerance for the unmarried woman who wants to get married. Based on that, there is no proof for prohibiting the practices of some Islamic institutions who gather large crowds of those seeking to get married with their parents in a large hall, allowing each of them to speak for several minutes to more than one young man or woman. Whether individuals reject or accept this practice is entirely their personal choice, based on differences in custom, environment and other personal considerations. Certainly if a woman already has suitors coming to her door and is not in need of this because of what is known of her beauty, her having memorized the Qur'an, her being active in da'wah or otherwise, then it is better for her not to visit these conferences for that purpose.

It goes without saying that such organizations should not neglect this issue and should do their best to minimize the need for Muslim women to speak to many seekers at a time. This could be done by various means, including matching the individuals based on matrimonial forms filled out prior to the conference, thereby decreasing the number of brothers each sister may need to meet and vice versa. In this way, they would acknowledge the modesty of the Muslim woman and safeguard her pride.

فالذي يظهر أن هناك شيئاً من التجوز في حق العزبة الراغبة في النكاح، وما تفعله بعض المؤسسات الإسلامية من جمع عدد كبير من الراغبين في الزواج وآبائهم في قاعة واسعة والسماح لكل منهم بالكلام عدة دقائق مع أكثر من شاب أو شابة لا يظهر لي وجه للمنع منه. أما قبول آحاد الناس لذلك أو رفضه فهذا شأن خاص يرجع إلى اختلاف العادات والبيئات واعتبارات شخصية أخرى. إن المرأة التي يأتيها الخطاب إلى بابها وتستغني عن هذا كله بما عرف من جمالها أو سمعتها كحافضة لكتاب الله أو ناشطة في الدعوة أو غير ذلك، خير لها ألا تغشى هذه المحافل لهذا الغرض وتستغني بما عرف من حالها. بقي أن هذه المؤسسات ينبغي ألا تقع في التفريط وأن تجتهد في تحصيل أسباب الصيانة وتكريم المرأة المسلمة والاجتهاد في تقليل الحاجة إلى الحديث مع عدد كبير من الخطاب بعمل استبيانات سابقة للمؤتمر ومحاولة التوفيق بين الأكفاء والمتلائمين بقدر الإمكان قبل اللقاء بينهم.

An important resolution of the sixth conference of the AMJA

فائدة من قرارات مجمع فقهاء
الشريعة بأمريكا في مؤتمره
السادس:

Secondly – Regarding the relationship between the two Genders:¹¹⁰

ثانياً: حول العلاقة بين الجنسين:

- The exchange of emotional expressions before marriage is impermissible due to its being a means to tribulation and a medium for falling into fornication. This is especially so in this age of ours where the authority of religion in the souls has weakened, the morals have been corrupted, and the virtuous principles have declined. There is no harm in speaking with a foreign (non-mahram) woman in goodness if there is no seclusion or doubt (i.e. fear of temptation) and there is a legitimate urgency or need for that, be it religious or otherwise.

* لا يجوز تبادل المشاعر العاطفية بين الجنسين قبل الزواج، لأنه وسيلة إلى الفتنة، وذريعة إلى الوقوع في الفاحشة، خصوصاً في زمننا الذي ضعف فيه سلطان الدين على النفوس وفسدت الأخلاق وانحدرت القيم الفاضلة. ولا بأس بالتحدث مع المرأة الأجنبية بالمعروف في غير خلوة ولا ربية، إذا وجد مقتضى لذلك من ضرورة أو حاجة معتبرة سواء أكانت دينية أم دنيوية.

None of the texts quoted from this website have been altered. Note that in this book, the topics are not discussed in the same sequence seen in the AMJA resolutions. (Editor)

- There is no harm in the communication of the two genders in goodness if there be a need and an absence of doubt. We advise that one of the guardians takes part in the correspondence so as to repel the possibility of (falling under the ruling of) seclusion. As for simple chit-chat and spending time (together), then this is of the means of tribulation, and of the footsteps of Shayṭān.
- The default is the lowering of the gaze in gatherings of men and women, and it is permitted to look at women for a need such as education, testimony, judicial proceedings, medical care, and the like. [End of AMJA resolution]

Another need is acquiring education, but in this matter, people frequently fall into either excess or laxity, and this is nothing new.

In fact, Ibn al-Jawzi (may Allah have mercy on him) said:

It is a form of innovation in the religion for motivational speakers, who discuss the religion primarily through storytelling, to gather men and women together; strange and shocking things occur in these gatherings from the intermixing of women and men, to the women raising their voices while shouting

* لا حرج في التخاطب بين الجنسين بالمعروف عند وجود المقتضي وانتفاء الريبة، ويوصى بإشراك أحد من الأولياء في التراسل دفعًا لشبهة الخلوة، أما مجرد الدردشة وتمضية الأوقات فهو من ذرائع الفتنة، وخطوات الشيطان.

* الأصل هو غض البصر في مجامع الرجال والنساء، ويرخص في النظر للمرأة عند الحاجة كالتعليم والشهادة والقضاء والتطبيب ونحوه.

ومن الحاجات تعلم العلم، ولكن الناس في هذا الأمر كثيرًا ما يقعون في الإفراط أو التفريط، وليس ذلك بجديد، بل قال ابن الجوزي رحمه الله: «فأما ما أحدث القصاص من جمع النساء والرجال فإنه من البدع التي تجري فيها العجائب من اختلاط النساء بالرجال ورفع النساء أصواتهن بالصياح والنواح إلى غير ذلك؛ فأما إذا حضرت امرأة مجلس خير في خفية غير متزينة وخرجت بإذن زوجها وتباعدت عن الرجال وقصدت العمل بما يقال لا and wailing, and so forth. However, if a woman wants to attend a beneficial gathering without drawing attention to herself, unadorned, with her husband's permission, keeping her distance from men and intending to act upon what is said, not just to listen for entertainment, the matter would be close [to being permissible], although with risk. We only permit things of this sort because staying away from hearing beneficial reminders only reinforces heedlessness and makes one forget the hereafter totally. However, the speaker must stress the obligatory, prohibit the forbidden and remind them of whatever will benefit the common folk, what the ignorant need to know regarding their religion and the fact that most of the people have strayed from the straight path. How rarely does this happen nowadays! These motivational speakers today only busy themselves by remembering Zulaykhâ¹¹¹ and Prophets Joseph (ﷺ) and Moses (ﷺ) and the mountain, and reciting love poetry. Hence, attending these gatherings is more harmful than beneficial.

What must be taken into consideration then, according to Ibn al-Jawzi, is التنزه كان الأمر قريباً مع الخطر، وإنما أجزنا مثل هذا؛ لأن البعد عن سماع التذكير يقوي الغفلة فينسى الآخرة بمرّة وينبغي للمُذكّر أن يحث على الواجبات، وينهى عن المحظورات، ويذكر ما ينفع العوام وما يحتاج إليه الجهال في دينهم. وهيئات ما أقل هذا اليوم إنما شغل القصاص اليوم ذكر إزليخا ويوسف وموسى والجبل، وإنشاد الغزل، فيكون الضرر بذلك أقوى من النفع».

العبرة إذاً عند ابن الجوزي بكون العلم نافعا محتاجا إليه، وبسلوك المعلم

¹¹¹ Zulaykhâ was the wife of al-'Azeez. The couple took Joseph and raised him, but after he grew up to be a handsome young man, Zulaykhâ tried to seduce him; when he refused, she accused him of attacking her, and he was imprisoned for that. (Editor) the benefit of the knowledge, whether there is a need to acquire it, and the behavior of the teacher and the students. Indeed, there are many ways for women to obtain the knowledge they are seeking via direct learning from a shaykh, without having to mingle with men or sacrifice their modesty.

The following illustrates a conceptual diagram of a study room in a mosque. The partition would be optional here, despite the fact that we consider it important in the prayer room.

The idea that we have mentioned here — teaching men and women together in the mosque — is conditional upon the need to teach women. It is acceptable when students are mature and rational.

Teaching male and female teenagers in co-educational schools, when it would be possible to separate them, is most verily akin to fuelling the fire. Even people in Western societies have begun to wake up to the disastrous effects of intermixing during this stage of life.

والطلاب. حيث إن هناك الكثير من الترتيب التي تعين على حصول النساء على ما يرغبن فيه من العلم عن طريق التلقي المباشر مع التواصل مع الشيخ وسؤاله، ومن غير مخالطة للرجال ولا ضياع للحياء.

وفي الصورة الآتية تصور لما يمكن أن تكون عليه قاعات الدرس في المساجد.

أما ما ذكرنا من تدريس الرجال والنساء مجتمعين في المساجد إنما يقبل للحاجة إلى تعليم النساء، وكذلك يقبل عندما يكون الطلاب من الناضجين العاقلين، أما تدريس المراهقين والمراهقات في مدارس مختلطة مع القدرة على الفصل، فإن ذلك لعمرى هو إضرار النار في الحطب. وقد بدأ الناس في المجتمعات الغربية اليوم بدؤوا يستفيقون على النتائج الكارثية للاختلاط في هذه المراحل، وبدأت الصرخات تُسمع

There are calls from people in various walks of life to separate boys and girls. In fact, the separation process has actually started in hundreds of schools, and there has been a great response from parents and teachers to this idea.¹¹² Must we pass through the same dark tunnel?

Included among needs is the mingling among women and their relatives and family acquaintances while visiting one another's homes. If there is not enough space for segregation, and everyone has to sit in one room, there should be no harm as long as the Islamic etiquettes are observed and a keen effort is made to maintain distance between the groups of men and women. This includes ensuring that men and women avoid facing one another. If the hostess needs to pass in front of the men to bring food or drink closer to them, as done by Umm Usayd, there should be no harm in that with the observance of propriety and modesty, lowering the gaze and avoiding facing the other gender for a long period. It is to be recognized, though, that usually, the custom of Muslims should be for the man to serve his male guests and the woman to serve the females.

من هنا وهناك للفصل بين الجنسين، بل لقد حصل الفصل بالفعل في مئات المدارس، وكانت هناك استجابة عظيمة من الآباء والمعلمين لهذه الفكرة. فهل ينبغي لنا أن نمر في النفق المظلم نفسه؟

ومن الحاجات اختلاط النساء بالرجال من المعارف والأقارب عند تبادل الزيارات في البيوت وتعذر الفصل لضيق المكان، فإن جمعتهم غرفة واحدة فلا بأس مع التزام الآداب الإسلامية وتحري التباعد بين الجنسين، وعدم المواجهة. وإن احتاجت صاحبة البيت المرور أمام الرجال لغرض تقريب طعام أو شراب إليهم كما فعلته أم أسيد، فلا بأس مع الاحتشام وغض الأبصار وعدم إطالة المواجهة، ومع إدراك أن الأصل والمنبغي في أكثر الأحوال هو قيام الرجل على خدمة أضيافه.

¹¹² A 2005 report by The Associated Press, titled "More States Offer Single-Sex Schools", begins, "For an increasing number of public schools, the formula for a better education requires a little arithmetic: divide the girls from the boys." For this very reason, the U.S. government, under President George W. Bush, pushed in this direction, as explained in a CNN 2002 report that began, "The Bush administration is pushing rule changes to encourage more single-sex classes and schools."

Another important factor which constitutes a 'need' is the mingling of the two genders while using public transportation. This is because the woman needs transportation to reach the places where she can fulfill her aforementioned needs, such as shopping, learning, and earning a living. This also must be done with keen effort invested in staying away from men. It is verily incumbent upon the Muslim communities to provide special sections for women on such modes of public transportation whenever possible, for their protection and honor.

The following is an important AMJA resolution regarding women travelling without a mahram to attend an Islamic conference or the like:

The default is that the woman is not to travel except with a husband or a mahram relative. It is permissible though, with the consent of the husband or guardian, the availability of trustworthy companionship, and the absence of doubt (temptation), for the woman to travel without a mahram for a legitimate need such as attending beneficial Islamic conferences, keeping ties of kin, exercising necessary rights like asking the ruler or filing a complaint, etc... if there is a mahram for her at her destination or she is secure of harm therein.

[End of AMJA resolution]

ومن الحاجات اختلاط المرأة بالرجال في وسائل النقل العام، فإنها تحتاج إلى ذلك لتحصيل ما سبق ذكره من حاجات التسوق والتعلم والتكسب... الخ. هذا مع مراعاة التباعد عن الرجال بقدر الإمكان، ومع التأكيد على وجوب توفير المجتمعات المسلمة أماكن خاصة بالنساء في هذه الوسائل متى تيسر ذلك، حفاظاً عليهن وتكريماً لهن.

فائدة من قرارات مجمع فقهاء الشريعة بأمريكا في مؤتمره السادس بخصوص سفر المرأة لحضور المؤتمرات الإسلامية وغيرها:

* الأصل أن لا تسافر المرأة إلا مع زوج أو ذي رحم محرم، ويجوز عند إذن الزوج أو الولي وتوافر الرفقة المأمونة، وانتهاء الريبة سفر المرأة بدون محرم لحاجة معتبرة، كحضور ملتقيات إسلامية نافعة، أو صلة رحم أو حقوق لازمة كسؤال حاكم أو رفع دعوى ونحوه. إذا كان لها محرم في بلد الوصول، أو أمنت فيه الفتنة.

Mixing in the Mosques

الاختلاط في المساجد

For Muslims living in the West, the mosques are the arks of Noah. Although there is a significant role for the mosque in the East, its importance in the West supersedes that. It is for this very reason that we recommend that Muslims in these countries remain enthusiastic about building the mosques and furnishing them with all that is necessary. This way, the mosque will become a refuge for Muslims and a place that their hearts yearn for.

The need for Muslim women in the West to go to the mosque far exceeds the need of their peers in the East. Therefore, women should not be prevented from going to the mosques; on the contrary, the mosques should be built to suit their needs and preserve their modesty.

Although he was well aware of the praiseworthy jealousy of his Muslim Ummah, the Prophet (ﷺ) stressed that excessive jealousy — to the degree of preventing women from fulfilling their needs, especially visiting the houses of Allah (ﷻ) — is by no means praiseworthy. He said:

إن المسجد في الغرب هو سفينة نوح للمسلمين المقيمين بتلك البلاد، ولدوره أهمية تفوق نظيرتها في الشرق على عظيم قدرها. ونحن نوصي المسلمين في تلك البلاد بالعناية بإقامة المساجد وعمارتها وتجهيزها بكل ما يلزم لتكون موئل المسلمين ومهوى أفئدتهم.

وإن للمرأة المسلمة بالغرب حاجة إلى المسجد تفوق حاجة نظيرتها بالشرق، لذا وجب عدم منع إماء الله من بيوت الله، وتهيئة المساجد لملاءمة حاجاتهن وحفظ حشمتهن وصيانتهم.

ولقد علم رسول الله ﷺ غيرة أمته المحمودة على الأعراض، فأراد أن ينبه إلى أنه لا يكون محموداً الغلو فيها إلى درجة أن تُمنع النساء من تحصيل منافعهن، سيما

«Do not prevent Allah's slave-women from going to Allah's mosques.»
(Muslim)

The Companions took that to be an enduring prohibition.

«Sâlim ibn 'Abdullâh ibn 'Umar narrated: My father ('Abdullâh ibn 'Umar) said that he had once heard the Prophet (ﷺ) say: Do not prevent your women from going to the mosques when they seek your permission for going there.

Bilâl ibn 'Abdullâh said: By Allah, we would certainly prevent them.

'Abdullâh insulted him badly, as I had never heard him insult him before. Then he said: I relate to you an instruction from the Messenger of Allah, and you say: We would certainly prevent them?»
(Muslim)

'Âtikah (رضي الله عنها), wife of 'Umar al-Fârooq (رضي الله عنه), mentioned that he did not want her to go to the mosque, but she would say, "By Allah, I will go unless you prevent me." 'Umar would not prevent her.¹¹³

It has been reported by 'Umar's biographers that 'Âtikah was present in the mosque the day he was killed. Do you

زيارة بيوت الله، فقال ﷺ: «لا تَمْنَعُوا إِمَاءَ اللَّهِ مَسَاجِدِ اللَّهِ». ١١٤

وفهم الصحابة أنه نهي على الدوام، فعن سالم بن عبد الله بن عمر أن أباه قال: «سمعت رَسُولَ اللَّهِ ﷺ يقول: «لا تَمْنَعُوا نِسَاءَ كُمْ الْمَسَاجِدَ إِذَا اسْتَأْذَنَكُمْ إِلَيْهَا». قال: فقال بلال بن عبد الله: وَاللَّهِ لَمَنْعُهُنَّ. قال: فَأَقْبَلَ عَلَيْهِ عَبْدُ اللَّهِ فَسَبَّهُ سَبًّا سَيِّئًا مَا سَمِعْتُهُ سَبَّهُ مِثْلَهُ قَطُّ. وقال: أَخْبَرُكَ عَنْ رَسُولِ اللَّهِ ﷺ وَتَقُولُ: وَاللَّهِ لَمَنْعُهُنَّ». ١١٥

ولقد ذكرت عاتكة زوج الفاروق أن عمر أراد لها عدم الخروج إلى المسجد فكانت تقول: «وَاللَّهِ لَأَخْرُجَنَّ إِلَّا أَنْ تَمْنَعَنِي، فَلَا يَمْنَعُهَا». ١١٦ حتى ذكر في سيرته أنها كانت حاضرة بالمسجد في يوم قتله ﷺ. فانظر إلى عمر ﷺ يحب لزوجه عدم الخروج وهو من هو في حزمه وشدته وتما مروهته see how ‘Umar (رضي الله عنه) disliked his wife’s going out? He was well known for his firmness, sobriety, perfect manhood and jealousy. Nothing would keep him from stopping her except a grave matter, which was his fear of disobeying the command of the Prophet (ﷺ).

وغيرته فلا يمنعه من منعها إلا أمر عظيم، وهو خوفه أن يخالف أمر رسول الله ﷺ.

Since it has been legislated that, in general, preventing women from going to the mosques is prohibited, and that it is sometimes more becoming that women go out rather than stay at home, it is important that certain regulations be obeyed. These regulations would allow them to fulfill the objective behind their going to the mosques and at the same time fend off any avoidable mishaps and harm. Included among these regulations are the following:

وحيث تقرر عدم جواز منع النساء المساجد في عموم الأحوال وأن خروجهن يكون أحياناً أولى من بقائهن في البيوت، فإن ثمة ضوابط لا بد أن تلتزم حتى يتحصل المقصود من خروج النساء إلى المساجد مع اجتناب ما يمكن اجتنابه من الكدر والضرر الذي لا يكاد ينفك عن ذلك؛ منها:

1. Not visiting mosques frequently for unnecessary reasons. The hadith that gives preference to the performance of women’s prayers at their home is a warning for women not to be lenient. It is, thus, inappropriate for them to perform the five prayers in the mosque, or else they would contradict Allah’s instruction:

﴿And abide in your houses....﴾

(Qur’an 33: 33)

What kind of homes would those be if small children were left unattended five times a day? Warnings by scholars such as Mâlik against frequenting the mosques are important and beneficial; they must not be overlooked or renounced.

١ - عدم إكثار التردد على المساجد لغير حاجة. وفي حديث تفضيل صلاة المرأة في البيت تنبيه للمرأة على عدم الإكثار من الخروج والدخول والذهاب والمجيء، فإنه لا يصلح لها أن تصلي خمسها في المسجد، فما الذي يبقى من قوله تعالى: ﴿وَقَرْنَ﴾ وأي بيوت تلك التي يترك فيها الأطفال خمس مرات في اليوم بلا راعٍ. إن تحذير العلماء كمالك من

كثرة التردد مهم ومفيد ولا ينبغي أن يهمل أو يتجاوز.

2. Obtaining the permission of their guardians or husbands. Women should not assume that they no longer need such permission just because men have been prohibited from preventing them from going to the mosques.

٢- ولا يكون خروج النساء إلا بإذن الأولياء أو الأزواج، فإن منع الرجال النساء من المساجد ليس بحال إذناً للنساء بترك الاستئذان.

3. Observing hijab and refraining from beautification.

«Do not prevent Allah's slave-women from going to Allah's mosques.» (Muslim)

This hadith that has also been narrated with the addition:

«Let them go out without wearing perfume.» (Abu Dâwood)

An-Nawawi has explained that when a woman puts on perfume and extravagant clothes, she invites immorality.¹¹⁷

٣- الالتزام بالحجاب وعدم التزين. إن حديث: «لا تمنعوا إماء الله مساجد الله». زاد فيه أبو داود «وليخرجن ثقلات». ١١٩. قال النووي: «أي غير متعطرات ولأنها إذا تطيبت ولبست الشهرة من الثياب دعا ذلك إلى الفساد». ١٢٠.

4. One of the main regulations is to avoid the mixing of women and men in the mosque.

Ibn Shihâb said: I see — and Allah (ﷻ) knows best — that he would linger in order to let the women leave before the men could catch up with them.» (Bukhari and Abu Dâwood)

«It was reported on the authority of Ibn ‘Umar that Allah’s Messenger (ﷺ) said: What if we designate this door for the women?

Nâfi‘ said: Ibn ‘Umar did not enter through it for the rest of his life.» (A sound hadith recorded by Abu Dâwood)

Abu Hurayrah (رضي الله عنه) narrated that Allah’s Messenger (ﷺ) said:

«The best of the men’s rows are the first, and the worst are the last, while the best of the women’s rows are the last, and the worst are the first.» (Muslim)

فَعَنْ أُمِّ سَلَمَةَ رَضِيَ اللَّهُ عَنْهَا قَالَتْ: «كَانَ رَسُولُ اللَّهِ ﷺ إِذَا سَلَّمَ قَامَ النِّسَاءُ حِينَ يَقْضِي تَسْلِيمَهُ وَمَكَثَ يَسِيرًا قَبْلَ أَنْ يَقُومَ. قَالَ ابْنُ شَهَابٍ: «فَأَرَى وَاللَّهِ أَعْلَمُ أَنَّ مَكْثَهُ لِكَيْ يَنْفِذَ النِّسَاءَ قَبْلَ أَنْ يُدْرِكَهُنَّ مَنْ أَنْصَرَفَ مِنَ الْقَوْمِ.» ١٢١.

وروى أبو داود في (باب في اعتزال النساء في المساجد عن الرجال) عن ابن عمر قال: قال رسول الله ﷺ: «لو تركنا هذا الباب للنساء». قال نافع: «فلم يدخل منه ابن عمر حتى مات.» ١٢٢.

وعن أبي هريرة قال: قال النبي ﷺ: «خير صفوف الرجال أولها وشرها آخرها وخير صفوف النساء آخرها وشرها أولها.» ١٢٣ قال النووي في شرحه على مسلم: «وإنما فضل آخر صفوف النساء الحاضرات مع الرجال

«Abu Usayd al-Anṣārī (رضي الله عنه) related that as he was coming out of the mosque, men were mixing with women on the road. He heard Allah's Messenger (ﷺ) tell the women: Stay back; it is not for you to walk in the middle of the road. Keep to the sides of the street. After that, a woman would stick to the wall so closely while walking that her clothes could catch on it.»¹²⁵

وقد روى أبو داود في كتاب الأدب من سننه في (باب في مَشِيِ النَّسَاءِ مَعَ الرَّجَالِ فِي الطَّرِيقِ) عن أَبِي أُسَيْدِ الْأَنْصَارِيِّ أَنَّهُ سَمِعَ رَسُولَ اللَّهِ ﷺ يَقُولُ وَهُوَ خَارِجٌ مِنَ الْمَسْجِدِ فَاخْتَلَطَ الرَّجَالُ مَعَ النَّسَاءِ فِي الطَّرِيقِ، فَقَالَ رَسُولُ اللَّهِ ﷺ لِلنِّسَاءِ: «اسْتَأْخِرْنَ فَإِنَّهُ لَيْسَ لَكُنَّ أَنْ تَحْقُقْنَ الطَّرِيقَ [تَسْرُنَ وَسَطَهُ] عَلَيَكُنَّ بِحَافَاتِ الطَّرِيقِ». فَكَانَتْ الْمَرْأَةُ تَلْتَصِقُ بِالْجِدَارِ حَتَّىٰ إِنْ تَوْبَهَا لَيَتَعَلَّقُ بِالْجِدَارِ مِنْ لُصُوقِهَا بِهِ»^{١٢٧}.

It was reported from Sahl ibn Sa'd (رضي الله عنه):

«Indeed, I saw the men tying their izârs around their necks like little boys, due to the shortness of the izârs (when praying) behind the Prophet (ﷺ). So someone said: O you women, do not raise your heads until the men rise.» (Muslim)

This refers to the women's lowering their gaze to avoid looking at the private parts of men.

6. Women should observe modesty while speaking; they should neither be too tender nor raise their voice unnecessarily.

Allah's Messenger (ﷺ) also indicated this when he told the men:

«Why is it that I have seen you clapping so much? Whoever has a concern in his prayer should say 'Subhân Allâh', for verily, if he says this, he will be noticed. Surely, clapping is for women.» (Muslim)

This hadith is about what to do during prayer, yet it indicates the difference between the voice of a woman and that of a man. Nevertheless, this does not in any way mean that a woman may not speak in the mosque. On the contrary, she may engage in discussion and offer arguments.

A good example is that of al-Mujâdilah (meaning 'the woman who disputed'), whose story was mentioned previously. Her Lord heard her from above the seven heavens. She had come to complain to the Prophet (ﷺ), the best of His creation and the head of the leaders and scholars, concerning an incident that had taken place between her husband and her. Contrast this with Paul, whom Christians consider to be an apostle. He ordered women to remain silent in the church, while Muhammad (ﷺ), the apostle of truth and guidance, let women dispute with him. In this case, her Lord (ﷻ) defended her and supported her argument with Qur'anic verses to be recited until the end of this world.

المسجد، بل وتناقش وتراجع، فهذه المجادلة قد سمعها ربها من فوق سبع سماوات وهي تجادل خير خلقه وسيد الأئمة والعلماء فيما كان بينها وبين زوجها. إن بولس، الذي يسميه النصارى رسولاً، قد أمر بأن تصمت النساء في الكنائس، ومحمد رسول الحق والهدى قد اتسع صدره لامرأة تجادله، ثم نصرها ربها وأيد حجتها بآيات تتلى إلى انقضاء الدنيا.

7. Women should select those mosques which have a proper segregated section for ladies, where they can ensure that they maintain their distance from men, hence safeguarding themselves from evil and harm.

٧- أن تختار المرأة من المساجد ما تكون فيها أقرب إلى الستر والصيانة، وأبعد عن مواطن السوء والأذى.

Women's rows

صفوف النساء

The rule:

Without doubt, the rule is that women's rows should be behind those of men. This was the situation in the Prophet's mosque, and there is no dispute about that.

«Anas (رضي الله عنه) reported that his grandmother, Mulaykah, invited Allah's Messenger (ﷺ) to share some food she had cooked, so he (ﷺ) ate of it and then said: Stand, so that I may pray for you. Anas ibn Mâlik (رضي الله عنه) said: So I stood and headed to a mat of ours, which had turned black from long use. I sprinkled it with water, and Allah's Messenger (ﷺ) stood upon it. An orphan boy and I formed a row behind him, and the elderly woman was behind us. Allah's Messenger (ﷺ) led us in two units of prayer and then left.» (Muslim)

This elderly woman prayed behind her own grandson, which makes it clear that women can make rows behind men.

الأصل في صفوف النساء:

لا شك أن الأصل أن تكون صفوف النساء خلف صفوف الرجال، فإن ذلك كان الشأن في مسجده ﷺ من غير خلاف.

وعن أنس: «أَنَّ جَدَّتَهُ مُلَيْكَةَ دَعَتِ رَسُولَ اللَّهِ لِطَعَامٍ صَنَعَتْهُ فَأَكَلَ مِنْهُ، ثُمَّ قَالَ: «قُومُوا فَأُصَلِّيْ لَكُمْ». قَالَ أَنَسُ بْنُ مَالِكٍ: «فَقُمْتُ إِلَى حَصِيرٍ لَنَا قَدْ اسْوَدَّ مِنْ طُولِ مَا لَيْسَ فَنَضَّحْتُهُ بِمَاءٍ فَقَامَ عَلَيْهِ رَسُولُ اللَّهِ ﷺ وَصَفَفْتُ أَنَا وَالْيَتِيمُ وَرَاءَهُ وَالْعَجُوزُ مِنْ وَرَائِنَا فَصَلَّى لَنَا رَسُولُ اللَّهِ ﷺ رَكَعَتَيْنِ ثُمَّ أَنْصَرَفَ». ١٣٠

Abu Hurayrah (رضي الله عنه) narrated that Allah's Messenger (ﷺ) said:

«The best of the men's rows are the first, and the worst are the last, while the best of the women's rows are the last, and the worst are the first.» (Muslim)

وعن أبي هريرة قال: قال رسول الله ﷺ: «خَيْرُ صُفُوفِ الرِّجَالِ أَوْلَاهَا وَشَرُّهَا آخِرُهَا وَخَيْرُ صُفُوفِ النِّسَاءِ آخِرُهَا وَشَرُّهَا أَوْلَاهَا». ١٣١

Is it permissible for women to stand to the right or to the left of men, or in front of them?

هل يجوز للنساء الوقوف على ميمنة الرجال أو ميسرتهم أو أمامهم؟

In certain exceptional situations, such as in big mosques that are sometimes overcrowded, it is acceptable for women to pray in front of or to the side of men.

أما في حال الاضطرار، كما يكون في المساجد العظيمة المزدحمة أحياناً، فلا بأس بصلاة النساء أمام الرجال وعلى الجانبين، وفي ذلك جاء في المدونة في صلاة المرأة بين الصفوف: «قلت لابن القاسم: إذا صلت المرأة وسط الصفوف بين الرجال أتفسد على أحد من الرجال صلاته في قول مالك؟ قال: لا أرى أن تفسد على أحد من الرجال ولا على نفسها». قال: «وسألت مالكا عن قوم أتوا المسجد فوجدوا رحبة المسجد قد امتلأت من النساء وقد امتلأ المسجد من الرجال فصلى الرجل خلف النساء لصلاة الإمام»، قال: «صلاتهم تامة ولا يعيدون». قال ابن

It has been stated in al-Mudawwanah: I asked Ibn al-Qâsim whether Mâlik believed that having women praying amidst men would spoil the prayer of any of the men. He said, "I am not of the view that this would spoil the prayer of any of the men or of the women themselves."

I asked Mâlik about people who came to the mosque and found its yard full of women and the mosque filled with men, so they prayed behind women, following the imam. He said, "Their prayer is sound, and they do not have to repeat it." Ibn al-Qâsim said, "He (who prays behind women) is worse than he who prays between women."¹³²

القاسم: «فهذا أشد من الذي يصلي في وسط النساء».^{١٣٤}

When there is an option, should a screen be used or not?

وفي حال الاختيار: إما أن يوجد حائل أو لا يوجد.

When there is a screen and there is no fear of temptation, most of the Ḥanafis, Mālikis, Shāfi'is and Ḥanbalis judge the adjacency of men to women as permissible, albeit detested. This is also the ruling for praying behind women, in the view of the majority (excluding the Ḥanafis).¹³³

أما عند وجود الحائل، وأمن الفتنة، فإن عامة العلماء من الحنفية والمالكية والشافعية والحنابلة يجوزون مع الكراهة محاذاة الرجل للمرأة، وكذلك صلاته خلفها عند الجمهور دون الأحناف^{١٣٥} وفي ذلك جاء في المدونة: «الصلاة أمام القبلة بصلاة الإمام قال: وقال مالك: ومن صلى في دور أمام القبلة بصلاة الإمام وهم يسمعون تكبير الإمام فيصلون بصلاته ويركعون بركوعه ويسجدون بسجوده، فصلاتهم تامة وإن كانوا بين يدي الإمام، قال: ولا أحب لهم أن يفعلوا ذلك. قال ابن القاسم: قال مالك: وقد بلغني أن دارًا لآل عمر بن الخطاب وهي أمام القبلة كانوا

In a chapter of al-Mudawwanah about praying facing the qibla (the direction that all Muslims must face in prayer, towards the Kaaba) and following the imam, it has been reported that Mālik said:

As for those who pray in their houses facing the qibla, following the imam's prayer, hearing his takbeer (his saying Allāhu akbar, meaning 'Allah is the Greatest') and following his praying, bowing and prostration, their prayer is correct, even though they are in front of the imam.

He said, "But I do not recommend that they do so."

Ibn ul-Qâsim has stated that Mâlik said:

I came to know that some time ago, some members of 'Umar ibn al-Khaṭṭâb's family used to follow the imam's prayer while in their house, even though their house was actually in front of the qibla.

Mâlik added, "I do not recommend that anyone does so, although it suffices him."¹³⁶

Perhaps Ibn al-Khaṭṭâb's family refers to his wives, because basically, men would set out to pray with other Muslims. It may also refer to his entire household, including the women. As stated by Ibn Taymiyah, it is permissible to pray in front of the imam when there is a genuine need.¹³⁷

The opinion of the majority of scholars is quite similar; there is no objection against the screen. The objectors have quoted as proof a hadith that lacks evidence of traceability, which says, “Bring them to the rear as Allah brought them.”¹⁴⁰ They also cite as evidence ‘Umar’s statement, which they claim to be traceable to the Prophet (ﷺ), “Whoever gets a river, a road or a women’s row between him and the imam must not pray.” Hence they regarded the praying of men behind women, in spite of the presence of a screen between them, as invalid even if the men’s rows number one hundred.¹⁴¹ This quotation is not authentic, whether traced back to the Prophet (ﷺ) or only to ‘Umar (رضي الله عنه). An-Nawawi has said, “It is invalid and has no origin.”¹⁴²

The objectors also add that a row of women is like a wall between the (male) follower and the imam. The presence of a large wall, which has no hole, between the follower and the imam hinders the validity of following the imam.

فإنهم إنما استدلوا بحديث: «أخروهن من حيث أخرهن الله». ١٤٣ ولا أصل له مرفوعاً. واستدلوا بقول عمر (رضي الله عنه) ورفعوه: «من كان بينه وبين الإمام نهر أو طريق أو صف من النساء فلا صلاة له». فاستحسنوا أن صلاة الرجال خلف النساء رغم الحائل باطلة وإن كانت صفوفهم مائة^{١٤٤} ولا يصح أثر عمر (رضي الله عنه) لا مرفوعاً ولا موقوفاً؛ بل قال النووي: «باطل لا أصل له». ١٤٥ وقالوا: «ولأن الصف من النساء بمنزلة الحائط بين المقتدي وبين الإمام، ووجود الحائط الكبير الذي ليس عليه فرجة بين المقتدي والإمام يمنع صحة الاقتداء». ١٤٦ وليس كذلك، فإن الشبه غير واضح بين صف النساء والحائط الذي لا فرجة فيه. فإذا انضاف إلى ذلك أن الحاجز

However, this is not the case since likening the row of women to a wall without holes is not clear. If the screen prevents temptations, then there is no point in invalidating men's prayer in rows behind or beside those of women, as long as the screen is present.

When there is no screen, praying to the right of, to the left of, or close behind women is invalid according to the Ḥanafis. The majority of scholars, though, consider it valid.¹⁴⁷ However, they all agree that when a woman does not find another woman to line up with, she can stand alone behind the row; it is not incumbent upon her to line up with someone.¹⁴⁸

There is no proof that the prayer is invalid. Still, the correct position is that women are prohibited from lining up adjacent to or in front of men without a screen, if there is no necessity. The rule is that women's rows should be behind those of men. This was the situation at the time of the Prophet (ﷺ) and is thus indisputable. The hadith narrated by Anas (رضي الله عنه) regarding the lining up يمنع من الفتنة، فلا وجه لإبطال صلاة الرجال الذين يصفون خلف صفوف النساء أو بجنبهن مع وجود الحائل.

أما عند عدم وجود الحائل، فإن الأحناف يبطلون صلاة من عن يمينها ومن عن يسارها ومن خلفها بحذائها، ويصححها الجمهور^{١٤٩}، ولكنهم اتفقوا على أن المرأة إذا لم تجد امرأة تصافها فإنها تقف وحدها خلف الصف ولا يلزمها أن تصاف أحدًا.^{١٥٠}

أما بطلان الصلاة فلا دليل عليه، ولكن المنع من صف النساء بمحاذاة الرجال أو أمامهم من غير حائل هو الحق والصواب في حال الاختيار. فإن الأصل في صفوفهن أن تؤخر، فهكذا كان الحال في عهده (ﷺ) بلا خلاف، وحديث أنس السابق في صف العجوز خلفهم واضح المعنى ظاهر of the elderly woman behind them, and the hadith of Abu Hurayrah (رضي الله عنه) on the best and the worst of the rows, both of which were quoted previously, are very clear in their meaning and obvious connotation.

The reason for the prohibition is clear if we see it as something that is blocking the way to temptation. It is obvious to those endowed with insight and reason that bringing women's rows in front of men's rows paves the way towards temptation.

As previously mentioned, the Prophet (ﷺ) ordered women not to raise their heads after bowing until the men had stood up. It is obvious that the opposite scenario is more serious; a man looking at a young lady before him as she bows and prostrates during prayer. This would indeed be a source of temptation as well as a distraction that would disturb his concentration. Some women these days, especially in the West, come to the mosque attired in extravagant, tight-fitting clothes that do not even cover the parts of their body that must be covered at all times. Combine this with all the aforementioned causes, and the reasons for this prohibition being obligatory becomes even more clear to every sound-minded individual who possesses even minimal knowledge about the objectives and rules of the Sharia, the rank and value of prayer, and the sanctity and purity of mosques.

الدلالة. وحديث أبي هريرة المتقدم معنا عن خير الصفوف وشرها كذلك.

فإذا انضاف إلى الأصل الاستدلال بسد الذريعة إلى الفتنة لظهر وجه المنع. أما كون صف النساء أمام الرجال ذريعة إلى الفتنة، فظاهر لذوي البصائر والحجاء، ولقد أمرهن رسول الله ﷺ ألا يرفعن رؤوسهن حتى يرفع الرجال من الركوع كما تقدم، والعكس أشد وأخطر، ونظر الرجل إلى شابة ترقع وتسجد أمامه في الصلاة فتنة له وتشتيت لذهنه وإذهاب لخشوعه؛ فإذا انضاف إلى ذلك أن من النساء في زماننا، وسيما في الغرب، من يأتين إلى المساجد بملابس زينة ضيقة، بل وغير ساترة للعورة، لزداد اليقين بوجوب المنع لدى كل عاقل وكل من كانت عنده أدنى بصيرة بمقاصد الشريعة وقواعدها وقدر الصلاة ومكانتها وحرمة المساجد وطهارتها.

Many of those who urge making the rows of women adjacent to those of men want to contravene the Sunnah just to prove to the non-Muslims that men and women are equal. This is one more reason for one to support this forbiddance.

Surely the Sunnah is the revelation of heaven, and the Sharia, as Ibn al-Qayyim has said, is Allah's justice among His bondsmen, His mercy among His creation, His shade on this earth and His wisdom that is evidence of Him and of the truth of His Messenger (ﷺ).¹⁵¹

Advancing women's rows nowadays with the allegation that this must be done to establish their equity with men is indeed impudence to Allah, the Lord of the earth and heavens, because it entails ascribing defects to His rulings. By Allah (ﷻ), I fear immense trials and a bad end for those who do so.

For women to pray without a screen in front of or beside men, where some of them might be seen by men, is not allowed if there is another alternative. In case of necessity, though, it is permissible and does not affect the soundness of prayer. If a screen is there, the situation becomes easier. It might be necessary to exercise flexibility because mosques are sometimes small, and many of them are not purpose-built. It could be permissible for women to pray in front of men, or at their sides, or even before the imam, as per the stronger opinions of scholars.

ثم إذا انضاف إلى كل هذا أن كثيرًا ممن يحضون على جعل صفوف النساء بمحاذاة صفوف الرجال إنما يريدون بذلك مخالفة السنة ليثبتوا لغير المسلمين أن الرجل والمرأة يستويان، لتأكد المنع مرة أخرى. إن السنة هي وحي السماء والشريعة التي هي - كما قال ابن القيم -: «عدل الله بين عباده، ورحمته بين خلقه، وظله في أرضه، وحكمته الدالة عليه وعلى صدق رسوله ﷺ أتم دلالة وأصدقها».^{١٥٢} إن تقديم صفوف النساء الآن بزعم مساواتهن بالرجال لافتراء على رب الأرض والسموات، وفيه ما فيه من نسبة النقص إلى أحكامه، وإني والله لأخشى على مثل هؤلاء الفتنة وسوء الخاتمة.

إن صلاة النساء أمام الرجال أو على جانبي الصفوف مع تقدم بعضهن بحيث يراهن الرجال، ومن غير وجود الحائل، لا يسوغ في حال الاختيار بحال، وإن ساغ لم يؤثر على صحة الصلاة في حال الاضطرار. أما عند وجود الحائل، فالأمر

أهون وقد يلزم التوسيع في ذلك لضيق المساجد في بعض الأحوال وكون كثير منها لم يصمم ليكون مسجدًا، فتجوز صلاتهن أمام الرجال وعلى الجانبين، بل وأمام الإمام على الصحيح.

The legitimacy of the screen

مشروعية الحائل

Is prayer behind a screen valid?

أولاً: هل تصح الصلاة خلف الحائل؟

Some screens contain holes to allow seeing through them, while others do not. The ruling is different in each case.

إن الحائل إما أن يكون فيه نقوب تسمح بالرؤية أو لا يكون. وبينهما فرق في الحكم.

There is a consensus that it is permissible to pray behind a screen that is movable and does not block the view. The issue of continuity of the men's rows with those of women does not apply; on the contrary, the best of their rows are the ones towards the end.

أما الحائل الذي لا يمنع من الاستطراق والرؤية، فالجماهير على جواز الصلاة خلفه^{١٥٣}، ولا ترد مسألة تواصل الصفوف على صفوف النساء، بل خير صفوفهن آخرها وهن يبدأن صفوفهن من الخلف إلى الأمام.

Ibn al-Humâm has explained the Hanafi school of thought in the following words:

قال ابن الهمام حاكياً مذهب الأحناف: «فالأول منه [الحوائل] حائط قدر قامه الرجل ليس فيه نقب، فإن كان فيه ولا يمكن الوصول منه لكن لا يشبهه عليه حال الإمام، اختلفوا فيه واختيار الحلواني الصحة،

The first of the screens was a wall, with the height of a man, without any holes. Scholars disagree about praying behind a screen with a hole (١٥٣) شرح فتح القدير ج ١ / ص ٣٨١ ومجموع الفتاوى ج ٢٣ / ص ٤٠٧ وعمدة القاري ج ٥ / ص ٢٦٢.

in it that does not allow viewing but does not cause uncertainty about the status of the imam; al-Ḥalwāni, however, has considered it valid.

Analogous to this is following the imam from the roof of the mosque or the minaret. In their opinion, it is permissible if they have a door to the mosque and there is no uncertainty about the status of the imam. There is a dispute concerning praying outside the mosque when there is no uncertainty. In conclusion, he chose to consider it valid.¹⁵⁴

Mālik has said:

Whoever prays in the yards connected to the mosque or in the open spaces adjacent to it, his prayer shall suffice him. This continued to be the state of affairs; none of the scholars of jurisprudence criticized it. No one should perform the Friday prayer by following the imam in a closed house where no one enters except with permission, even if it is near (to him), because it not a part of the mosque.¹⁵⁵

وعلى هذا الاقتداء من سطح المسجد أو المئذنة، ولهما باب في المسجد ولا يشتبه يجوز في قولهم، وإن كان من خارج المسجد ولا يشتبه فعلى الخلاف. وفي الخلاصة اختار الصحة»^{١٥٦}.

وقال مالك: «فمن صلى في شيء من أفنية المسجد الواصلة به من المسجد أو في رحابه التي تليه فإن ذلك مجزئ عنه ولم يزل ذلك من أمر الناس لم يعبه أحد من أهل الفقه. قال مالك: فأما دار مغلقة لا تدخل إلا بإذن فإنه لا ينبغي لأحد أن يصلي فيها بصلاة الإمام يوم الجمعة وإن قربت لأنها ليست من المسجد»^{١٥٧}.

Praying behind a screen that has no holes and that hinders viewing and movement from one side to the other is more controversial. The Mālikis have permitted it, as have the majority of scholars, in conditions of necessity. The Ḥanafis, Shāfi'is and Ḥanbalis have forbidden it.¹⁵⁸

Ibn Abu Shaybah has reported in his book, through a non-authentic chain of narration after 'Umar (رضي الله عنه), that it is forbidden for both men and women; Ibrāheem an-Nakh'i and ash-Sha'bi have also reported this. He has also reported after Anas (رضي الله عنه), Abu Hurayrah (رضي الله عنه) and Abu Mijlaz, in a chain of transmission which al-Albāni considered more authentic, that it is permissible.¹⁵⁹ When Abu Mijlaz was asked about the ruling of a woman who could not see the imam but was able to hear the takbeer, he replied that it suffices her.¹⁶⁰

Ibn Taymiyah has said:

أما الصلاة خلف الحائل الذي لا نقب فيه ويمنع الرؤية والاستطراق، فالخلاف فيه أكثر، وإن جوزته المالكية، بل والجمهور عند الحاجة^{١٦١}، ولكن منعه الحنفية والشافعية والحنابلة^{١٦٢}، ونقل ابن أبي شيبة في مصنفه المنع للرجل والمرأة عن عمر بسند لا يصح، وإبراهيم النخعي، والشعبي؛ ونقل الجواز عن أنس، وأبي هريرة، وأبي مجلز بأسانيد وصفها الألباني بالأصح^{١٦٣}. وسئل أبو مجلز عن المرأة لا ترى الإمام وتسمع التكبير، فقال: «يجزئها ذلك».^{١٦٤}

There are several opinions of Aḥmad and others concerning the case when there is a screen that prevents seeing and moving. Some say it is permissible, while others say it is not. Yet others have suggested that it is permissible only inside the mosque and not in any other places unless there is a genuine need. There is no doubt that it is absolutely permissible in cases of need, such as when the mosque doors are shut, when the compartment in which the imam is present is closed, and other similar situations.

Even if seeing is obligatory, it would be disregarded during times of genuine need or emergency. This is more desirable than using this as an excuse to drop the obligatory acts of prayer or to avoid prayer in congregation. It must be noted that in all cases, prayer in congregation is better than praying alone.

He was asked about the legal opinion concerning the validity of the prayer of one who prays after the imam with a screen between them, such that he cannot see the imam or those who can see the imam.

He answered:

Praise be to Allah (ﷻ). Yes, it is valid according to most of the scholars. It is the frank stipulation by Aḥmad who أقوال في مذهب أحمد وغيره: قيل: يجوز؛ وقيل: لا يجوز؛ وقيل: يجوز في المسجد دون غيره؛ وقيل: يجوز مع الحاجة ولا يجوز بدون الحاجة؛ ولا ريب أن ذلك جائز مع الحاجة مطلقاً، مثل أن تكون أبواب المسجد مغلقة، أو تكون المقصورة التي فيها الإمام مغلقة، أو نحو ذلك، فهنا لو كانت الرؤية واجبة لسقطت للحاجة كما تقدم فإنه قد تقدم أن واجبات الصلاة والجماعة تسقط بالعذر وأن الصلاة في الجماعة خير من صلاة الإنسان وحده بكل حال. وسئل عن من يصلي مع الإمام، وبينه وبين الإمام حائل بحيث لا يراه ولا يرى من يراه هل تصح صلاته أم لا؟ فأجاب: «الحمد لله؛ نعم تصح صلاته عند أكثر العلماء، وهو المنصوص الصريح عن أحمد، فإنه نص على أن المنبر لا يمنع الاقتداء». والسنة في الصفوف أن يتموا الأول فالأول ويتراصون في الصف فمن صلى في مؤخر المسجد مع خلو ما يلي الإمام كانت صلاته مكروهة والله أعلم». ^{١٦٥} قلت: الكراهة هنا للرجال دون النساء، فالسنة لهن أن يُصَلِّينَ في مؤخر المسجد.

stated that the pulpit (blocking one's view) does not prevent following the imam.

According to the Sunnah, the rows should be completed in such a way that the first row is filled completely, then the second, and so on. Rows also have to be straight. No one should pray in the rear of the mosque if it means leaving empty places behind the imam, or else his prayer would be disliked, and Allah (ﷻ) knows best.¹⁶⁶

I said: The offense here is for men and not for women, as the Sunnah has recommended that they pray towards the rear of the mosque by default.

Al-Bayhaqi reported in Ma'rifat as-Sunan wal-Athâr:

Imam Shâfi'i has said that it is not permissible for one who is in a house, whether near the mosque or far from it, to pray inside it unless the rows reach him at the ground floor, with no barrier between him and the rows.

He was asked if he could provide evidence from texts, and he said:

Some women prayed with 'Â'ishah (رضي الله عنها) in her room, and she said: Do

وفي معرفة السنن والآثار، روى البيهقي في باب (لا بأس بالصلاة في رحبة المسجد والبلاط بصلاة الإمام): «... قال الشافعي فيمن كان في دار قرب المسجد أو بعيداً منه لم يجز له أن يصلي فيها إلا أن تتصل الصفوف به، وهو في أسفل الدار لا حائل بينه وبين الصفوف...»، قال: فإن قيل: أفتروي في هذا شيئاً؟ قيل: صلى نسوة مع عائشة في حجرتها، فقالت: «لا تصلين بصلاة الإمام فإنكن دونه في حجاب». قال: وكما قالت عائشة في حجرتها إن not pray after the imam, for you are separated from him by a barrier.

He said:

The case is exactly as ‘Ā’ishah (رضي الله عنها) said, even if these were not her exact words.¹⁶⁷

Imam Shāfi‘i has also said in this context:

This is different from the compartment of the imam because the compartment is a part of the mosque, even though it is a barrier between those who are behind it and the imam. This is like a partition of the pillars or less, or the partition consisting of the box holding copies of the Qur’an, or the like.¹⁶⁸

كانت قالته».^{١٦٩} ... قال الشافعي في خلال ذلك: وهذا مخالف للمقصورة، المقصورة شيء من المسجد؛ فهي وإن كانت حائلاً دون ما وراءها بينه وبين الإمام وإنما هو كحول الإسطوان أو أقل وكحول صندوق المصاحف وما أشبهه».^{١٧٠}

Preponderance

الترجيح

The dispute on this issue is well known, with strong arguments on both sides. However, the stronger view is that it is valid to pray behind and follow the imam without being able to see him if it is a case of genuine need or emergency. Even in this case, though, it must be possible to hear him. There is إن الخلاف في هذه المسألة كثير مشهور، والأرجح صحة الصلاة والاقتران مع عدم إمكان الرؤية عند الحاجة؛ وذلك إذا أمكنت المتابعة بالسمع، لعدم الدليل على المنع ولتصحيحهم جميعاً الصلاة على سطح المسجد، وقد تتعذر الرؤية.

¹⁶⁷ The narration has not been proven to be ‘Ā’ishah’s; al-Albāni said, “I did not find it.” Al-Albāni, Irwā’ al-Ghaleel, no. 543.

no authentic proof that this particular scenario is prohibited. Moreover, all the schools of thought consider praying on the roof of the mosques to be valid even though seeing the imam is difficult from there. Praying in the open spaces adjacent to the mosque is similar to praying inside the mosque, according to the Shâfi'is, even if seeing the imam from there is difficult.

Al-Haytami said, "...those who are there may follow those in the mosque, even if something interferes between them by passing, etc."¹⁷¹

Does this mean that we should consider this the rule in women's prayer areas? I do not think so. In order to avoid this controversial issue, though, the screen we choose when building a mosque should not prevent seeing the imam or moving about.

This will be discussed in more detail in the next topic.

Is it lawful to set up a screen between men and women?

This is a subject of considerable dispute and controversy, which sometimes entails an exchange of accusations

والصلاة في الرحبة عند الشافعية كالصلاة في المسجد وإن تعذرت الرؤية؛ قال الهيثمي رحمه الله: «...ويصح الاقتداء لمن فيها بمن في المسجد، وإن حال بينهما ما يمنع المرور والرؤية وغير ذلك».^{١٧٢}

ولكن، هل يفهم من ذلك أن نجعل ذلك الأصل في مصليات النساء؟ لا يظهر لي ذلك، بل الذي يظهر أن الحائل الذي نختاره عند بناء المسجد ينبغي ألا يمنع الرؤية والاستطراق، على أقل تقدير خروجاً من الخلاف. ونفصل القول في ذلك في المطلب القادم.

ثانياً: هل تشرع إقامة حائل بين الرجال والنساء:

إن أمر إبقاء الحائل بين الرجال والنساء في المساجد مما كثر فيه الخلاف واللغظ، بل between the parties. It has reached the point of attracting the attention of the U.S. media. It should be obvious why they are so interested in this matter and all similar ones that relate to Muslim women.

Some people have claimed that the barrier between men and women is an illegal innovation. The truth is that it is a means of implementing certain Islamic injunctions. Besides, the Messenger of Allah (ﷺ) did not forbid it. After he died, people's circumstances changed. In line with the rising need, Muslims started to give more attention to the privacy of the women's prayer area in the mosques in order to keep it out of the sight and access of men. They took into consideration measures that would not deprive women from following the imam through hearing and seeing him, and that would at the same time guarantee cross-movement and continuity between women's and men's prayer areas.

Proofs of the legitimacy of the barrier or screen

It was reported on the authority of Ibn Jurayj, who said:

'Aṭâ' informed me that when Ibn Hishâm prevented women from performing the ṭawâf with men, 'Aṭâ وتبادل التُّهم. ولقد وصل الأمر في بعض الأحيان إلى أن استدعى انتباه وسائل الإعلام الأمريكية، والتي لا يخفى سر اهتمامها بهذا الأمر وكل ما يتعلق بالمرأة المسلمة.

بعض الناس ادَّعوا أن الحاجز بين الرجال والنساء بدعة غير مشروعة، والصواب أنه من الوسائل التي تأخذ أحكام مقاصدها، ولم ينه عنه رسول الله ﷺ، فلما مات ﷺ وتغيرت أحوال الناس، ووجد المقتضي، صار المسلمون إلى جعل أماكن النساء في المساجد أكثر خصوصية وأبعد عن نظر الرجال، دون حرمان النساء من متابعة الإمام بالنظر والسمع، بل ومع ضمان الاستطراق أو التواصل بين مكاني النساء والرجال.

الأدلة على مشروعية الحاجز:

ما رواه البخاري في صحيحه عن ابن جريج قال: أخبرني عطاءٌ إذ منع ابن هشام النساء الطواف مع الرجال قال: «كَيْفَ يَمْنَعُهُنَّ وَقَدْ طَافَ نِسَاءَ النَّبِيِّ ﷺ asked: How does he prevent them when the wives of the Prophet (ﷺ) performed ṭawâf with men?

I (Ibn Jurayj) asked: Was that after the (verses of the) hijab or before?

He ('Aṭâ') replied: Yes, most verily, I saw that after the hijab.

I asked: How did they intermingle with men?

He said: They did not intermingle. 'Ā'ishah (رضي الله عنها) used to circle the Kaaba while separated from men (or to the side), not intermixing with them.

A woman said: Let us kiss (or touch) the black stone, O Mother of the Believers.

She replied: Forsake that, will you not?

She herself refused. The female Companions would go out (covered enough to be) unnoticed at night and circle the Kaaba with men, but when they wanted to enter the House, they used to stand (wait for a while) until the men had come out.

I ['Aṭâ'] would go to 'Ā'ishah with 'Ubayd ibn 'Umayr while she was staying inside the mount of Thabeer.

I [Ibn Jurayj] asked: And what was her hijab?

'Aṭâ' said: She was in a tent of Turkish felt, with a light screen.

There was nothing else between her and us besides that, and I saw on her a rose-colored garment. (Bukhari)

Hâfidh ibn Hajar said in Fath ul-Bâri: And in the narration of al-Kushmeehani, [the word is] ‘hajzah’, with the letter ‘zay’ [not ‘hajrah’, which would mean ‘to the side’], which is the narration of ‘Abdur-Razzâq. He explained it at the end, saying: It means separated from the men by a curtain.¹⁷⁴

I referred back to *al-Muṣannaf*¹⁷⁵ and found the explanation of ‘hajzah’ towards the end of Umm Salamah’s hadith, which follows this hadith of ‘Ā’ishah’s and describes the same events.

This hadith is the basis for the prescription of having a barrier between men and women during ṭawâf and in prayer, because the Mother of the Believers did so in the presence of the Companions, and no one condemned her. It is true that the Mothers of the Believers had their special rulings, but we can deduce from the hadith that it is permissible to use a screen when needed.

The Mothers of the Believers used to pray with the rest of the women in the mosque of the Messenger of Allah (ﷺ).

قال الحافظ في الفتح: «وفي رواية الكُشْمِيهَنِيَّ «حَجْزَةٌ» بالزاي وهي رواية عبد الرزاق فإنه فسره في آخره، فقال: «يعني محجوزًا بينها وبين الرجال بثوب».^{١٧٦} ولقد رجعت إلى المصنف^{١٧٧} فوجدت تفسير حجة في آخر حديث أم سلمة التالي لحديث عائشة رضي الله عنها.

وهذا الحديث أصل في مشروعية اتخاذ الساتر في الطواف والصلاة بين النساء والرجال، فإنه فعل أم المؤمنين بمحضر من الصحابة ولم ينكره أحد. ولا يشغب على هذا الاستدلال أن لأمهات المؤمنين حكمًا خاصًا، وإنما نستدل على جواز اتخاذ الحاجز للحاجة، فإنهن كن يصلين في مسجد رسول الله ﷺ مع بقية النساء ثم

Later, however, ‘Ā’ishah (رضي الله عنها) put up a screen because of crowding in the sanctified mosque in Makkah.

Allah’s Messenger (ﷺ) has said:

«The prayer of a woman in (the family part of) her home is better than her prayer in the formal reception area, and her prayer in her own private quarters is better than her prayer in (the family part of) her home.» (Abu Dâwood)¹⁷⁸

It can be deduced from this hadith that if a woman is given more privacy in the mosque, she can reap the rewards of attending the congregational prayer while also preserving her modesty.

It might be argued that the Messenger of Allah (ﷺ) and his Companions were more deserving of this, but no one should see himself as preceding them to a merit that they fell short of. The answer is that he guided us to do this; there was no need for it at his time, but the need arose later. He left some things to be carried out by his Companions after him, such as the compilation of the Qur’an into one book¹⁷⁹ and the اتخذت عائشة ذاك الحاجز لما كان هناك زحام في المسجد الحرام.

قول رسول الله ﷺ: «صَلَاةُ الْمَرْأَةِ فِي بَيْتِهَا أَفْضَلُ مِنْ صَلَاتِهَا فِي حُجْرَتِهَا وَصَلَاتُهَا فِي مَخْدَعِهَا أَفْضَلُ مِنْ صَلَاتِهَا فِي بَيْتِهَا».^{١٨٠}
 ووجه الاستدلال أنه لو وفر للمرأة المزيد من الخصوصية في المسجد، لاجتمع لها شهود الجماعة والخير والحفاظ على الصيانة والستر. فإن قيل: فإن رسول الله ﷺ وأصحابه كانوا أحرى بهذا الخير، ولا ينبغي للمرء أن يظن أنه يسبق إلى فضل قصروا عنه، لكان الجواب بأنه دلنا على هذا الفعل، ولم يوجد المقتضي في زمنه ﷺ ووجد بعده. وإنه ﷺ ترك جمع القرآن وإدخال الحجر في البيت وغير ذلك مما فعله أصحابه من بعده.

¹⁷⁸ The chain of narrators of this hadith is sound and according to the conditions of Imam Muslim.

¹⁷⁹ During the life of the Prophet (ﷺ), the Qur’an was memorized by many of the Companions, and it was also written down; however, different people had different parts of it. After his death, Abu Bakr (رضي الله عنه) ordered that it be compiled into one copy. At the time of the third caliph, ‘Uthmân (رضي الله عنه), one official copy was made and reproduced; this is the same as any copy in the world since. (Editor) inclusion of the *hijr*¹⁸¹ in the sanctified house of Allah (ﷻ).

Some readers might object, saying that I am contradicting myself. On the one hand, I have stated that preventing women from going to mosques on the pretext that circumstances have changed is not justified; on the other hand, I have recommended the use of screens. Yet the difference between the two matters should be obvious: the first was prohibited by the Messenger of Allah (ﷺ) in very clear terms; in contrast, his Sunnah specified that the second was recommended and even obligatory when necessary.

Blocking the means to temptation

This rule lends support to the legitimacy of using a screen. Women nowadays go to mosques fully adorned. I was saddened to learn of photographs from as-Salâm Mosque that were published in newspapers in the U.S. At this mosque, they had pulled down the barrier segregating men from women, and some of the photographs showed young ladies wearing tight pants. To Allah (ﷻ) we complain.

وإن قيل: تناقض نفسك فتمنع من منع النساء من المساجد بحجة تغير الأحوال، وتستدل بذات الحجة على اتخاذ الحاجز، لكان الجواب بأن الفرق واضح بين الأمرين، فالأول نهى عنه رسول الله ﷺ صراحة دون الثاني الذي أشارت سنته إلى استحبابه أو وجوبه عند وجود المقتضي.

سد الذريعة إلى الفتنة

إن هذه القاعدة مما يستدل به هنا على مشروعية اتخاذ الحاجز، فإن النساء لعمري يأتين إلى المساجد في كامل زينتهن، ولقد ساءني أن إحدى الصحف الأمريكية التقطت صوراً للنساء في مسجد السلام المذكور أعلاه بعد هدم الحائل، وإذا ببعضهن شواب يلبسن السراويل الضيقة، وإلى الله المشتكى.

¹⁸¹ The hijr Ismâ'eel is the half-circle-shaped area next to the Kaaba, where Prophet Abraham (ﷺ) built a shelter for his wife Hajar and his son Ishmael (ﷺ). It used to be part of the Kaaba. (Editor)

Consideration of public welfare

المصلحة

In the current day and age, women come to the mosques from some distance, so they may need to stay there for some time either before or after the prayer. A woman might wish to take off her hijab, recline, nurse her infant or the like. How would a Muslim woman do any of these things in the presence of men if the women's prayer places were exposed?

Men would then enjoy more privileges than women in the mosque, such as being able to rest and relax with their friends.

If an objector insists that, concerning this matter, women must stick to what their ancestors used to do during the time of the Prophet (ﷺ), we can only ask him to replicate the rest of the matters at his time. We do not intend to incapacitate him by demanding a generation like theirs; we are just calling for the same practices and arrangements, such as:

- Women should go to the mosque without perfuming themselves,¹⁸² and they should wrap themselves in outer garments similar to those of إن للنساء في زماننا، وهن يأتين للمساجد من أمكنة بعيدة، حاجة للمكث في المسجد فترات بعد الصلاة أو قبلها، وقد تحتاج أن تتخفف من بعض ثيابها أو تتكىء أو ترضع وليدها أو غير ذلك. ومع انكشاف مكانهن، لا أعتقد أن امرأة مسلمة تفعل شيئاً من ذلك أمام الرجال. يبقى إذاً للرجال من الحقوق في المساجد ما لا تحصله النساء من الراحة والتبسط في الحديث مع الإخوان وغير ذلك.

بقي أن المخالف إن تمسك بما كان عليه الحال في عهده ﷺ، لطالبناه ببقية ما كان عليه الحال في عهده ﷺ، ولسنا في ذلك نعجزه بطلب جيل كجيلهم، بل نطالب بذات الممارسات ونفس التدابير، ومنها:

- أن تأتي النساء إلى المساجد تفلات^{١٨٣} متلفعات بمروطهن^{١٨٤} كما كن يفعلن الصحابيات ﷺ.

— أن ينصرفن سريعًا بعد الصلاة كما فعلن ﷺ، حتى أنهن لم يكنَّ يُعرفن من الغلس عند انصرافهن من صلاة الصبح^{١٨٦}.
- Men should not look back until all the women have left. (Bukhari) — ألا يستدير الرجال حتى تنصرف النساء^{١٨٧}.

- If both men and women are trying to enter or leave at the same time, the women should wait, in order to avoid racing with men to reach the door of the mosque, the elevators or the like.¹⁹⁰ (Based on a sound hadith recorded by Abu Dâwood)

See 'Â'ishah's narration, which was mentioned earlier, about how she skipped touching the black stone; she explained: "...when they wanted to enter the House, they used to stand (wait for a while) until the men had come out..."

Since we have established the legitimacy of the screen, can we say that its use is obligatory?

This is something that might vary from one mosque to another. In some of the large mosques where there is a vast space separating men and women, a screen may not be needed, even though it is preferable for the comfort and reassurance of women. On the other hand, in small mosques where men and women, young and old, may have to sit facing and looking at one another after the prayer, a screen undoubtedly becomes obligatory.

— ألا يحققن الطريق،^{١٩١} ومن ذلك أن يتأخرون في الدخول والخروج حتى لا يزاحمن الرجال داخل المسجد على الأبواب وفي المصاعد وغيرها.^{١٩٢}

أما وقد قررنا مشروعية الحائل، فهل نقول بوجوبه؟ لعل الأمر يختلف من مسجد لآخر ففي بعض المساجد العظيمة التي يكون الفاصل فيها بين موقف الرجال والنساء شاسعاً، ربما لا يحتاج للفاصل وإن كان يستحب لراحة النساء وطمأنينتهن. أما في بعض المساجد الصغيرة، والتي ترى الرجال والنساء كباراً وصغاراً متقابلين في جلستهم بعد الصلاة ينظر بعضهم إلى بعض، فالوجوب هنا لا يشك فيه. إن بعض

Some places of worship in the West have become places of questionable conduct. Indeed, we do not want our mosques to tread this path.

Sometimes a screen interferes with a woman's concentration (tranquility of the heart and stillness of the body) during prayer; it also impedes listening to sermons of knowledge. The result is that the women's prayer area becomes totally detached from what is taking place in the mosque. Therefore, emphasis should be strictly laid on protecting a Muslim woman's right to learn, benefit and achieve concentration (tranquility of the heart and stillness of the body).

In the meantime, the women's prayer area in the mosque should not become a place for entertainment, backbiting, tale-bearing, quarrelling and dissension. To achieve this end, the following should be implemented:

1. The women's prayer areas should not be designated in rooms that are totally separate from the mosque itself.
2. The screen should not hinder hearing, seeing or passing between the main hall and the women's area. No one would deny this, since the majority of scholars do not approve of praying behind screens without a genuine need. There are several types of screens that can fulfill this

المعابد قد صارت في الغرب مواطن عطب وأماكن ريبة؛ فهل نرضى ذلك لمساجدنا؟

ويبقى أنه في كثير من الأحوال يكون الحائل حائلاً بين النساء والخشوع في الصلاة وسماع العلم، فيصير مصلى النساء وكأنه عالم آخر منفصل بالكلية عما يدور بالمسجد. لذا ينبغي التشديد وبكل حزم على حماية حق المرأة المسلمة في التعلم والاستفادة والخشوع؛ وكذلك حماية المساجد من أن تصير مصليات النساء المنفصلة فيها أمكنة للسمر وما يستتبعه في الغالب من الغيبة والنميمة والنزاع والخصومة. وإنما يكون ذلك بما يأتي:

- ١- ألا تكون أمكنة صلاة النساء في حجرات منفصلة.
- ٢- ألا يكون الحائل مما يمنع الرؤية والسماع من غير تكلف والاستطراق بين القاعة الرئيسة ومصلى النساء. كيف لا والجمهور لا يصححون الصلاة - عند عدم الحاجة - خلف تلك الحواجز. إن هناك أنواع من aim, including one-way mirrors that prevent seeing from one side and wooden partitions with latticework. The barrier or screen should not be excessively high, and a passage should be made on one side to allow communication and passing between the two halls. The women's prayer area can also be constructed on a higher floor that overlooks the main hall of the mosque.

3. The scholar or imam should schedule special classes exclusively for women, similar to those organized by the Messenger of Allah (ﷺ).

«Abu Sa'eed al-Khudri narrated: Some women requested that the Prophet (ﷺ) set aside a day for them because the men were taking all his time. Hearing that, he promised them one day (a week) in which he would meet with them, preach to them and advise them.» (Bukhari)

4. Women should not be prevented from coming out from behind the screen to listen to a lesson or to query the imam. How could we prevent them when women used to answer the Messenger of Allah (ﷺ) and his successors in his mosque?

الحوائل تؤدي هذا الغرض كزجاج المرايا الذي يمنع الرؤية من إحدى الجهتين، والخشب المعشق المعروف بالأرابيسك، ولا ينبغي أن يبالغ في ارتفاع الحاجز، وينبغي أن يترك ممر في جانب منه لحصول التواصل بين القاعتين والاستطراق. وقد يجعل للنساء طابق يصعدن إليه فيشرفن على القاعة الرئيسة للمسجد.

- ٣- أن تخصص دروس للنساء كما كان

يفعل رسول الله ﷺ فعن أبي سعيد الخدري: «قالت النساء للنبي ﷺ: عَلَبْنَا عَلَيْكَ الرَّجَالُ فَاجْعَلْ لَنَا يَوْمًا مِنْ نَفْسِكَ، فَوَعَدَهُنَّ يَوْمًا لَقِيَهُنَّ فِيهِ فَوَعَظَهُنَّ وَأَمَرَهُنَّ». ١٩٣

- ٤- ألا يمنع من الخروج من وراء الحائل

لسماع درس أو مراجعة الإمام. كيف نمنعهم، وقد كانت النساء يجبن رسول الله ﷺ وخلفاءه في مسجده.

5. The imam should not ignore them.

«Jâbir ibn ‘Abdullâh reported: I observed prayer with the Messenger of Allah (ﷺ) on the day of Eid. He commenced with prayer before the sermon, without a first or second call to prayer. He then stood up, leaning on Bilâl, and commanded (them) to be vigilant with regard to the rights of Allah; he exhorted (them) to obey Him, and he preached to the people and admonished them.

He walked on until he came to the women. He preached to them, admonished them, and said to them: Give alms, for most of you are the fuel for hell.

One of the best women, with blemished dark cheeks, stood up and asked: Why is that so, Messenger of Allah?

He said: That is because you grumble often and show ingratitude to your husbands.

Then they began to give alms out of their ornaments, such as their earrings and rings, which they threw on to Bilâl’s cloth.» (Muslim)

Such care for, and interaction with, women would have never been possible had they been in a separate room.

٥ - أَلَا يَهْمَلُهُنَّ الْإِمَامُ، فَعَنْ جَابِرِ بْنِ عَبْدِ اللَّهِ قَالَ: شَهِدْتُ مَعَ رَسُولِ اللَّهِ ﷺ الصَّلَاةَ يَوْمَ الْعِيدِ فَبَدَأَ بِالصَّلَاةِ قَبْلَ الْخُطْبَةِ بِغَيْرِ أَذَانٍ وَلَا إِقَامَةٍ ثُمَّ قَامَ مُتَوَكِّئًا عَلَى بِلَالٍ فَأَمَرَ بِتَقْوَى اللَّهِ وَحَثَّ عَلَى طَاعَتِهِ وَوَعِظَ النَّاسَ وَذَكَرَهُمْ، ثُمَّ مَضَى حَتَّى أَتَى النِّسَاءَ فَوَعِظَهُنَّ وَذَكَرَهُنَّ فَقَالَ: «تَصَدَّقْنَ فَإِنْ أَكْثَرْتُنَّ حَطَبُ جَهَنَّمَ». فَقَامَتِ امْرَأَةٌ مِنْ سِطَةِ النِّسَاءِ سَفَعَاءُ الْخَدَيْنِ فَقَالَتْ: «لِمَ يَا رَسُولَ اللَّهِ؟» قَالَ: «لِأَنَّكُمْ تُكْفِرْنَ الشُّكَاةَ وَتَكْفُرْنَ الْعَشِيرَ». قَالَ: «فَجَعَلَنْ يَتَصَدَّقْنَ مِنْ حُلِيِّهِنَّ يُلْقِينَ فِي نَوْبِ بِلَالٍ مِنْ أَقْرَاطِهِنَّ وَخَوَاتِمِهِنَّ». ١٩٤ إن مثل هذه العناية بالنساء وذاك التفاعل معهن لا يتأتى إن كن في حجرة منفصلة تمامًا.

Chatting and online correspondence

المحادثة والمراسلة عبر الإنترنت

Undoubtedly, the Internet has become one of the most characteristic features of contemporary times. Like most other tools, it is a combination of good and evil, and both are of great significance. The question that arises now, pertaining to the issue of gender intermingling, is: what is the ruling on mingling in that virtual world? What is the impact of that ruling on our approach to the Internet itself?

To begin with, the use of the term 'mingling' here is allegorical, since chatting between two individuals who are separated by thousands of miles does not fit the definition of mingling as stated near the beginning of this book.

Secondly, it is essential that we admit the benefits of the Internet and realize the necessity for Muslims to reap these benefits to the best of their ability. This is a positive approach, exercised wisely by a vast majority.

Nevertheless, is there any danger in men and women using and interacting over the Internet? By Allah (ﷻ), the إن الشبكة العنكبوتية قد صارت من أهم سمات ومعالَم عصرنا هذا، وإنها كغيرها قد اختلط خيرها بشرها وكلاهما عظيم. والسؤال الآن الذي يتعلق بموضوعنا عن اختلاط الرجال بالنساء هو ما حكم الاختلاط في ذلك العالم الافتراضي؟ وما أثره على تعاملنا مع هذه الشبكة؟

بداية، إن اسم اختلاط هنا يطلق مجازاً، لأن المحادثة بين شخصين بينهما آلاف الأميال لا تندرج أصلاً تحت تعريف الاختلاط الذي ذكر في أول الكتاب.

ثانياً، إن الإقرار بنفع الشبكة المعلوماتية وضرورة عدم تخلف المسلمين عن الاستفادة منها أمر واجب، ولعل الأغلبية الساحقة من العقلاء لا يشكون في ذلك.

ولكن هل ثمة خطر في استعمال الناس رجالاً ونساءً للشبكة؟ اللهم نعم، وأرجو ألا تنازع في ذلك الأغلبية الساحقة من العقلاء answer is yes. I hope the vast majority of the wise individuals will not question this.

Many righteous men and women take a more permissive stand towards online chatting and correspondence. In that virtual world, as they call it, they behave in a way that is completely different from how they conduct themselves in the real world. This is mainly due to their sense of security that the other correspondents are unable to see them, and that even if or when they do, they are far away. This results in the deterioration of modesty and the audacity to indulge in impropriety. People by now have realized that unguarded interactions frequently lead to infatuation and temptation. Moreover, they may lead to committing enormous sins, and that could happen even without any physical meeting. How often do women complain about their husbands' disinterest in them and attachment to other women in the virtual world? The husbands spend a great deal of time engaging in improper conduct with those women.

Having recognized those dangers, is it now more appropriate to bar one or both of the two sexes from the Internet in order to block the means to evil? The question may be legitimate, since it is established in our religion that avoiding harm takes precedence over attaining كذلك. إن كثيراً من الصالحين والصالحات يتساهلون في أحاديث الشبكة، وقد يكون منهم في ذلك العالم الافتراضي - كما يسمونه - ما لم يكن ليصدر عنهم خارجه، وذلك لا طمئنان كل واحد من المتحدثين من عدم اطلاع الآخرين عليه، ولو اطلعوا فإن بُعد المسافات يؤدي إلى قلة الحياء والجرأة على ما لا يليق. إن العام والخاص قد علموا بأن تلك الأحاديث تجري في أحيان كثيرة إلى الإعجاب والافتتان بل واللقاء والوقوع في المنكرات العظيمة، وحتى من غير لقاء، فما أكثر شكوى النساء من انصراف أزواجهن عنهن وتعلقهم بنساء في ذلك العالم الافتراضي يقضون معهن الأوقات الطويلة فيما لا يليق بمسلم ولا مسلمة.

إذا علم ذلك فهل يسوغ أن نمنع أحد الجنسين أو كليهما من الشبكة، سداً للذرائع ولما تقرر عندنا من أن دفع المفاسد مقدم على جلب المصالح؟ وقد حرم الله ﷻ الخمر وذكر أن فيها منافع للناس. الحق benefit. Did Allah (ﷻ) not forbid wine despite having mentioned its benefits? Despite that, this conclusion does not appear valid to me because the harms of wine clearly outnumber its benefits, while this is not necessarily the case with the Internet. Moreover, it is not possible to attain the benefits of wine without incurring some harm. With regard to the Internet, it may be true that completely avoiding harm may not be feasible, yet it is possible to contain it to a great extent. The question now is: how do we do that?

Firstly, it is essential that we do not waste our precious time in frivolous activities over the Internet. The Internet can be compared to a huge market; it has the potential to distract us with vanities and devour our time. Even chatting amongst the same gender, if done in excess, could waste one of the human's greatest assets: time — or you might say life. The Prophet (ﷺ) said:

«There are two blessings regarding which many people are losers: good health and free time.» (Bukhari)

He also said:

«A person's feet will not move on the Day of Resurrection (meaning that he will not be dismissed) until he has been asked about how he spent his life, what he did with his knowledge, how he acquired his wealth and how he spent

أن هذا لا يظهر وذلك لكون إثم الخمر أكبر من نفعها وهذا لا ينطبق بالضرورة على الشبكة، ولاستحالة تحصيل منافع الخمر مع السلامة من أضرارها. أما الشبكة، فلعل السلامة الكاملة من الأضرار تتعذر، ولكن تقليلها إلى حد كبير ممكن وواجب، فكيف نفعل ذلك؟

ينبغي ألا نضيع الأوقات على الشبكة فيما لا خير فيه ولا طائل منه، والحال أنها كالسوق الكبيرة قد تلهي الإنسان عن مصالحه وتفترس أوقاته. إن مجرد المحادثات، حتى وإن كانت بين الرجال فيما بينهم، فإن الإسراف فيها مضيعة لأعلى ما يملك الإنسان، وهو وقته، أي عمره. لقد قال الصادق (عليه السلام): «نِعْمَتَانِ مَغْبُونٌ فِيهِمَا كَثِيرٌ مِنَ النَّاسِ الصِّحَّةُ وَالْفَرَاغُ». [البخاري] وقال (عليه السلام): «لَا تَزُولُ قَدَمَا عَبْدٍ يَوْمَ الْقِيَامَةِ حَتَّى يُسْأَلَ عَنْ عُمُرِهِ فِيمَ أَفْنَاهُ، وَعَنْ عِلْمِهِ فِيمَ فَعَلَ، وَعَنْ مَالِهِ مِنْ أَيْنَ اكْتَسَبَهُ وَفِيمَ أَنْفَقَهُ، وَعَنْ جِسْمِهِ فِيمَ أَبْلَاهُ». [رواه الترمذي عن أبي بَرزَةَ الْأَسْلَمِيِّ]

it, and in what he wore his body (health) out.» (at-Tirmidhi; al-Albâni graded it as authentic)

The wise must be stingier with their time, ensuring that it is spent in pursuits that are closer to righteousness and profit than they are to corruption and destruction.

It is incumbent on us to avoid evil and temptation as much as possible. It is also important to browse only those websites that do not display indecent images or banners. There are usually alternatives; for instance, one can switch from one email provider to another for that very reason.

Sometimes a significant and legitimate benefit cannot be achieved without encountering some harm, such as inappropriate images that are found on news websites and in some beneficial documentaries. In this regard, I present to you the pertinent resolution of the sixth conference of the AMJA:

Sixthly: Regarding beneficial audio or video programs that may be tainted with some violations:

It is consented [permitted] to benefit with what others prepared of instructional programs, documentaries, and historical programs that serve a purpose, as well as beneficial cartoons with regard to children. If something taints it of instruments that don't incite lusts nor ignite desires, then considering the inability to avoid it (due to it being so widespread), the scarcity of available alternatives, the differentiation between hearing and listening since this music that accompanies (the program) was not intended to be heard in and of itself, nor does the onlooker lend it his ear, nor focuses on it, then it is resembling the musical intermissions in news broadcasts that the vast majority have agreed on consenting to listening to it and watching it — while calling attention to the ruling on instruments and minimizing it as much as possible. [End of AMJA resolution]

I do not see any harm in the coexistence of men and women inside a virtual classroom or a virtual meeting for some da'wah purpose. This would even be permissible in person as long as there was a reasonable distance between the sexes, so its permissibility online would be even more obvious. All of this would certainly be contingent upon the attendees' observance of the proper Islamic etiquettes and absence of obscenity.

The meeting of a man and a woman alone in a virtual room should be limited to rare cases for a significant need, and it may not exceed the time required to realize that need. It is also impermissible for them to socialize or chat about matters not directly pertinent to the business at hand.

All suspicious websites must be avoided, especially certain social networking websites. This particularly applies to young men and women. The evil of such websites is almost uncontrollable, although we must add here that we ought to make the appropriate alternatives available. Having affirmed that, I must also add that those very sites may be a fertile land for da'wah and introducing Islam to others. Therefore, the callers to Islam may frequent them for that purpose, given that they feel safe from temptation.

Should the parents monitor their children's virtual communications?

An important AMJA resolution regarding the supervision of youth's communications is as follows:

Fifthly: Regarding the Supervision of the Youth's Communication(s):

It is upon the parents and the educational and disciplinary institutions to make the youth aware of the rulings of interactions, relations, and communications amongst one another. It is important also that the relationship between the parents and children be based on a foundation of communication, openness, constant closeness, productive dialogue, giving advice and direction, and maintaining trust and good assumptions of the children. It is of the responsibilities of the parents to supervise the actions, relations, and communications of the youth that have yet to reach the age of responsibility in a wise and appropriate way. هل يراقب الآباء مراسلات الأبناء؟

فائدة من قرارات مجمع فقهاء الشريعة بأمريكا في مؤتمره السادس حول الرقابة على مراسلات الناشئة:

خامساً: حول الرقابة على مراسلات الناشئة

«ينبغي للآباء والمؤسسات التربوية والتعليمية توعية الناشئة بأحكام التصرفات والعلاقات والمراسلات بين بعضهم البعض، وينبغي أن تكون العلاقة بين الآباء والأولاد قائمة على أساس من الانفتاح والتواصل والتقارب الدائم والتشاور وحسن التوجيه والإرشاد وتغليب الثقة وحسن الظن بالأولاد، ومن مسؤولية الآباء الرقابة على تصرفات وعلاقات ومراسلات الناشئة الذين لم يبلغوا سن التكليف بطريقة حكيمة ومناسبة».

If writing is sufficient, it is not permissible for members of the opposite sex to use voice-chatting. Video-chatting should be avoided completely. If a woman needs to use her voice, such as when she is in a virtual classroom or an online college, then whatever has been said about the guidelines of talking to men in the market or other public places will apply here as well.

Finally, I hope that Satan will neither trivialize the danger of these trials nor diminish our ability to resist them. Allah (ﷻ) ordained the Mothers of the Believers to refrain from speaking tenderly in order to avoid tempting those with sick hearts. That was said to the best of women, during the best of times and at the best of places. The Messenger of Allah (ﷺ) has also informed us about some people who will approach the false Messiah while thinking of themselves as believers, only to return in a state of unbelief. Allah (ﷻ) has said:

«O you who have believed, enter into Islam completely [and perfectly], and do not follow the footsteps of Satan. Indeed, he is to you a clear enemy.»

(Qur'an 2: 208)

لا يجوز استعمال الصوت حيث تكفي الكتابة وتؤدي الغرض المطلوب، أما الصورة فتجتنب بالكلية. فإن احتاجت المرأة لاستعمال الصوت، كما لو كانت في جامعة على الشبكة، وكانت تحضر حلقات الدرس الافتراضية، فما يقال من ضوابط في حديثها مع الرجال في السوق والطريق يقال هنا أيضًا.

أخيرًا: أرجو ألا يهون الشيطان من خطر تلك الفتن في أعيننا، أو يهول من قدرتنا على مقاومتها، فإن الله ﷻ قد أمر أمهات المؤمنين ألا يخضعن بالقول فيطمع الذي في قلبه مرض، وهنَّ في الفضل من هنَّ، وفي خير الأزمنة والأمكنة. ولقد أخبرنا رسول الله أن قومًا يأتون الدجال يظنون بأنفسهم الإيمان فينقلبون كفارًا. قال تعالى:

﴿يَأْتِيهَا الَّذِينَ ءَامَنُوا ادْخُلُوا فِي السِّلْمِ كَآفَّةً وَلَا تَتَّبِعُوا خُطُوَاتِ الشَّيْطَانِ ۗ إِنَّهُ لَكُمْ عَدُوٌّ مُّبِينٌ﴾ [البقرة: ٢٠٨]

Conclusion

خاتمة

We, the Muslims, need to appoint divine revelation as the superior judge in all our affairs; we must not put any other will before Allah's will, regardless of our personal preferences, our comfort level, or the traditions with which we have been raised.

On the one hand, we should not reject every new piece of knowledge that we encounter until we have thoroughly checked it against the revelation to ascertain whether it complements it or contradicts it. Indeed, Allah's Messenger (ﷺ), who was aided by the revelation, changed his mind about prohibiting women from breastfeeding during pregnancy, after he learned that it had not harmed the children of Persia and Rome.

On the other hand, it is also not wise to rush to accept everything new, in the name of modernity, especially when every new thing that comes to us has been initiated by the non-Muslims, who differ from us in their basic principles of belief, action and ethical behavior. We should also ensure that we are not dazzled by everything that they possess just because they seem stronger and victorious. This is because neither material إننا معاشر المسلمين ينبغي أن نجعل الوحي حكمًا علينا في كل أمورنا، فلا نقدم على مراد الله مرادًا وإن كان هوى النفس أو ما تراتح إليه أو شَبَّت عليه. ولا ينبغي أن نرد كل جديد وارد حتى نعرضه على الوحي لنعلم مخالفته له أو موافقته، فإن رسول الله ﷺ المؤيد بالوحي رجع عن منع الغيلة لما رأى عدم ضررها بأبناء الفرس والروم.

وليس من الحكمة كذلك أن نسارع في قبول كل جديد، سيما إن كان واردًا إلينا من غيرنا ممن يخالفنا في أصول الاعتقاد والعمل والسلوك، ولا ننبهر بكل ما عند الآخر لكونه الغالب المنتصر، فليست القوة المادية ولا التطور العلمي، وإن كانا مما يحرص عليهما، مقياسًا للفلاح، ولا تتحقق بهما سعادة الدنيا ولا الآخرة، وإلا wealth nor scientific advancement (even if they are both something to strive for) is a standard for success. Neither of them can bring happiness in this life or in the hereafter. If they had the potential to do so, then the Pharaohs, the people of 'Âd, or the people of Iram (who built such lofty pillars) would have deserved them more than Moses (ﷺ) and his companions, or even Muhammad (ﷺ) and his Companions.

The effects of disobeying and violating the injunctions of Allah (ﷻ) do not necessarily materialize within months or even years. If they did, everyone would be guided aright without the need for contemplating the revelation and submitting to it. However, it was Allah's will to give His slaves respite and time in order to test them and distinguish the bad from the good. Sin and corruption have been left like cavities to rot away at the base of the tree until it perishes. Fortunate is the one who takes warnings from the mistakes of others.

I know very well that what I have mentioned is my own comprehension of the textual proofs as the people of knowledge have understood them. I hope that all of it is correct, even if it is more likely that I have unintentionally erred somewhere. Still, my hope in Allah's forgiveness has enabled me to dare to tread this rugged path. May

إن آثار العصيان ومخالفة سنن الرحمن
لا يشترط أن تظهر على أصحابها في أشهر
أو سنين، وإلا لاهتدى للصواب كل أحد
من غير حاجة لتدبر الوحي والتسليم له،
ولكن شاء الله أن يمهل العباد ليمتحنهم،
فيميز الخبيث من الطيب، وتبقى المعاصي
والانحرافات كالسوس ينخر في أصل

إنني أعلم أن ما ذكرت هو قراءة لي في
نصوص الوحي حسبما فهمها أهل العلم،
وأرجو أن تكون كلها صواباً، وإن كان
الأغلب أن في بعضها خطأً غير مقصود،
ولكن طمعي في غفرانه جرأني على سلوك
هذه الطريق الوعرة، فأرجو أن يمن عليّ به،

He grant me the straight path and not deprive me of reward for whatever I have written in these pages.

AMJA Resolutions
Sixth Annual Conference, Montreal, Dhul-
Qa'dah 9 - 13, 1430
AH October 28 - 31,

قرارات مجمع فقهاء الشريعة
بأمريكا في مؤتمره السادس
بمونتريال في الفترة من ٩ - ١٣
من شهر ذو القعدة ١٤٣٠ هـ
الموافق ٢٨ - ٣١ من شهر
أكتوبر ٢٠٠٩ م

Firstly: Regarding the intermixing between men and women:

أولاً: حول الاختلاط بين الرجال
والنساء:

Intermixing is a concise expression.
There is the permissible of it as well as the impermissible. Of this and that there is the agreed upon and of it is the differed over.

الاختلاط تعبير مجمل، منه ما يحل
ومنه ما يحرم، ومن هذا وذاك ما هو متفق
عليه، ومنه ما هو مختلف فيه

If what is intended by it is the basic gathering of men and women in open places to take part in shared acts of religion or worldly affairs - along with the consideration of the Sharia etiquettes of hijab, lowering the gaze, and organizing the gathering with what aids that, then there is no harm in it. Of this is the gathering of men and women in the open spaces to attend the two Eid prayers,

فإن قصد به مجرد اجتماع الرجال
والنساء في أماكن مفتوحة لأداء عمل
مشترك دينياً كان أو دنيوياً، وروعت فيه
الآداب الشرعية من الحجاب وغض البصر
ونحوه، ورتب المجلس بما يعين على
ذلك، فلا حرج فيه، ومن ذلك اجتماع
الرجال والنساء في الخلاء لشهود العيدين،
وحول المشاعر في الحج، وفي مجالس

the rituals of Hajj, the open gatherings of knowledge whether they are in the mosque or elsewhere, and the going out of women to tend to their needs amidst the people. This is so alongside seeing that the women properly observe Hijab and they are distanced from men as best they can. Also, both parties are to observe reservation and the lowering of the gaze. Emphasis is made though on the importance of separating between the genders in the educational institutions, for this is more preserving of values, more distant from tribulation, more severing of means (towards promiscuity), and more prompting of the student of knowledge's mental focus. Some educational institutions in the West have even begun to realize this.

If what is intended by it is the mingling of the two parties and permeation of their ranks (by one another), then this is upon the default prohibition so long as no urgent necessity or strong need recognized by Sharia arises. Of these needs are those explicit in the texts, and of them are those that are deduced by qiyâs (i.e. juristic reasoning via analogy), and from them is what exists in wars, legal proceedings, medical treatments, and their like. This is so while keeping in mind that urgent necessities and strong needs are to be given their proper estimate.

العلم المفتوحة سواء أكان ذلك في المسجد أم في غيره، وخروج النساء لقضاء حوائجهن في مجامع الناس، مع ملاحظة التزام النساء بالحجاب وكونهن متباعدات عن الرجال ما أمكن، والتزام الفريقين بالصيانة وغيض البصر، ومع التأكيد على أهمية الفصل بين الجنسين في المؤسسات التعليمية، فإن هذا أحفظ للقيم، وأبعد للفتن، وأقطع للذرائع، وأدعى إلى اجتماع الذهن على طلب العلم، وقد بدأت تتبته إلى ذلك بعض المؤسسات التعليمية في المجتمعات الغربية.

* أما إن قصد به اختلاط الفريقين وتخلل صفوفهما فذلك على أصل المنع، ما لم تدع إليه ضرورة أو شدة حاجة شرعية معتبرة، ومن الحاجات ما هو منصوص عليه، ومنها ما هو مقيس عليها. ومن ذلك ما يكون في الحروب أو التقاضي أو التطبيب ونحوه، مع ملاحظة أن الضرورات والحاجات تقدر بقدرها.

In the case where intermixing is permissible due to an urgent necessity or strong need, there are guidelines that must be attended to in all cases. Of them are: lowering the gaze, avoiding immorality and informality, forbidding seclusion and bodily contact, preventing crowding, reserved conduct, concealing the 'awrah (i.e. body parts whose public visibility is forbidden in Sharia), and organizing the gathering in a manner that would aid in lowering the gaze as much as possible.

Placing women in public gatherings as program introducers or hosts of the guests or the like isn't included among the acceptable needs, while there are in the gathering men that can assume these actions with the same degree of performance.

Familial gatherings on shared, mixed tables for the sake of some social activity such as fundraising or a wedding dinner or its like isn't included among the acceptable needs.

There are factors that affect the tightening and loosening (of rulings) around this subject. What appears from textual analysis and the actions of the salaf (the earliest generations of the righteous followers of Islam) is that intermixing ومتى كان الاختلاط مباحًا، لضرورة أو لحاجة معتبرة فإن هناك ضوابط ينبغي أن تراعى في كل أحواله، ومنها: غض البصر، وتجنب الفحش والعبث، وتحريم الخلوة وتلامس الأبدان، ومنع التزاحم، والالتزام بالصيانة وستر العورات، وأن ترتب المجالس بما يعين على غض البصر ما أمكن.

* ولا يندرج فيما يسوغ من المصالح والحاجات فرض الفتيات في المحافل العامة كمقدمات للبرامج أو مستقبلات للضيوف ونحوه، وفي المجلس من الشباب من يستطيعون أن يؤدوا هذه الأعمال بنفس المهنية والاقترار.

* ولا يندرج فيما يسوغ من المصالح والحاجات جمع العوائل والأسر على موائد مشتركة مختلطة بمناسبة القيام ببعض الأنشطة الاجتماعية كجمع التبرعات أو وليمة عرس ونحوه

وهناك عوامل تؤثر في هذا الباب تضييقًا وتوسيعًا، فإن الذي يظهر من النظر في النصوص وعمل السلف أن أمر الاختلاط يختلف بحسب أعمار الرجال والنساء، والحاجة الداعية إليه، والمناخ differs depending on the ages of the men and women, the need prompting it, and the atmosphere it is found in of tribulation or lack thereof. The determining factor in this is the weighing of the pros and cons involved, and it is upon those responsible to seek the verdict of the people of knowledge in their particular environment and act upon their fatwa in that.

The prime stance in this issue is that it is mandatory to safeguard the Islamic values that the Sharia directs to of virtuosity, shame, concealment, and reservation, while acknowledging the need for men and women to share in the fields of good actions and cooperation upon righteousness and piety, da'wah and reform, and the like - to give precedence to the outweighing benefit over the imagined harm (i.e., fallaciously assumed danger). [End of AMJA resolution]

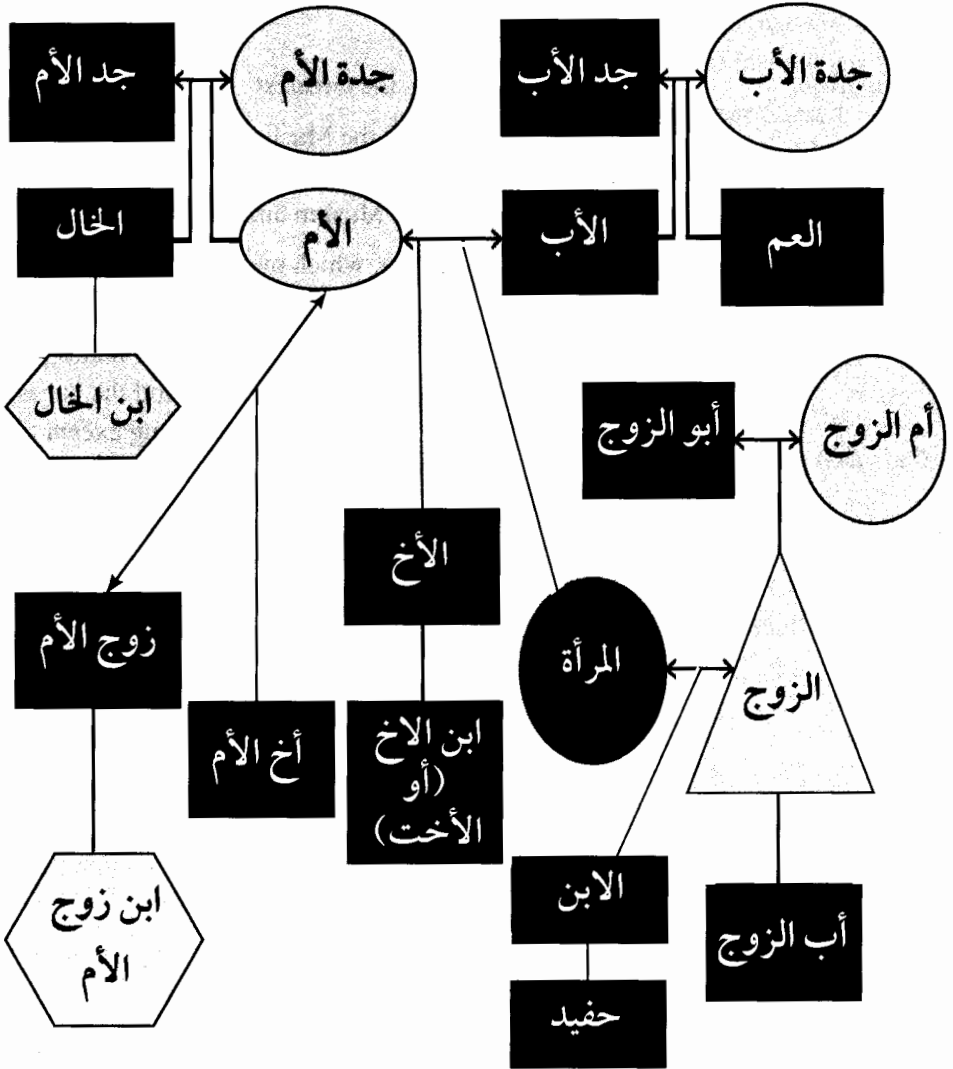

الذي يوجد فيه من حيث وجود الفتنة وعدمها، والضابط في ذلك هو الموازنة بين المصالح والمفاسد، وعلى المكلف في هذه الحالات أن يستفتي أهل العلم في الواقعة المعينة وأن يصدر عن فتواهم في ذلك

* وصفوة القول في ذلك أنه يجب الاحتياط للقيم الإسلامية التي دل عليها الشرع كالفضيلة والعفاف والستر والصيانة، مع مراعاة الحاجة إلى اشتراك المرأة والرجل في مجالات فعل الخير والتعاون على البر والتقوى، والدعوة والإصلاح، وفي مثل هذا تقدم المصلحة الراجحة على المفسدة المتوهمة.

Interaction between unrelated members of the opposite sex is inevitable at times, yet we need to know when it is permissible, to what extent, and what ethical guidelines should be observed.

Are men allowed to interact with female students, and vice versa, in a virtual classroom? Can a woman pursue a professional career that necessitates her interaction with men? Is it appropriate for a woman to serve her husband's guests? Do mixed wedding ceremonies comply with the Sharia?

In A Guide to Male-Female Interaction in Islam, Dr. Hatem al-Haj has taken a broad view of the subject, keeping in mind the opinions of scholars who have taken a stricter stance as well as those who are more flexible in their interpretation.

الاختلاط مع أفراد من الجنس الآخر من غير المحارم هو أمر لا مفرّ منه في بعض الأحيان. ولما امتنع أن يكون لا بد منه وممنوعاً في أن. كان لا بد من التساؤل عن الأحوال التي يكون فيها جائزاً وتلك التي يكون فيها ممنوعاً؛ ومتى كان جائزاً، فإلى أي حد، وما هي الآداب التي ينبغي أن تراعى؟

هل يسمح للطلاب الذكور بالتواصل مع الطالبات في قاعات الدرس الافتراضية؟ هل يجوز للنساء أن يعملن في مهنة تقتضي اختلاطهن بالرجال؟ هل من الملائم للمرأة أن تقوم على خدمة ضيوف زوجها من الرجال؟ هل تتوافق حفلات الأعراس المختلطة مع الشريعة الإسلامية؟

في كتاب (الاختلاط بين الجنسين) يعالج الدكتور حاتم الحاج هذا الموضوع معالجة واسعة، معتمداً على نصوص القرآن والسنة، وأخذاً بعين الاعتبار آراء الفريقين من العلماء المغلبيين لجانب الحظر والمغلبيين لجانب الإباحة.
